1. Rule 12 (ix).—Omit last clause of this rule.
2. Rule 28 (1).—Substitute "Instructor" for "teacher."
3. After rule 28 (2) enter a new rule (3) as follows:—"Fine by the Director to an amount not exceeding Rs. 5 for each offence."

This rule is intended to apply to small breaches of discipline, of which very serious notice cannot be taken and for which a reprimand is often disregarded.

4. To present rule 28 (4) add "or in the case of a student in receipt of a stipend under Rule 12 (ix) to reduce or altogether withdraw the stipend."
5. For present rule 28 (5) substitute the following:—

"The Director, acting with the consent of all the officers of the School, has power to dismiss any student for misconduct; and a student thus dismissed cannot be readmitted to the School."

This verbal alteration is required because it is only possible during four months in the year to assemble a full meeting of the School Officers as required by the rule as it stands at present.

REPORT ON PLAGUE IN CALCUTTA FROM 30TH JUNE 1900 TO 18TH MAY 1901.

NOTIFICATION--No. 1680 $\frac{\text{Med.}}{\text{P.}}$.

The following papers are published for general information.

MUNICIPAL DEPT.,—Medical,
The 27th August 1901.

H. M. KISCH,
Offg. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

No. 840II., dated Calcutta, the 3rd August 1901.

From—THE HON'BLE Mr. R. T. GREER, I.C.S., Chairman of the Corporation of Calcutta,

To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Municipal Department.

I HAVE the honour to forward a copy of a Report on Plague in Calcutta, by Major H. E. Deane, Special Health Officer, for the period between the 30th June 1900 and the 18th May 1901.

2. The disease had continued to maintain its epidemic form from the previous year, and was only declared sporadic in the report for the week ending the 13th October. On the 9th February 1901 plague again became epidemic. On the 8th June it assumed a sporadic form, and has not yet disappeared.

Epidemic or sporadic.

3. The Chairman administered the Plague Regulations as in previous years, Major H. E. Deane, R.A.M.C., being the Special Health Officer immediately in charge of the operations.

Staff.

4. The superior establishment consisted of—

(1) Mr. H. M. Crake, M.B., CH B.
(2) Mr. E. C. Pettifer, M B. (Lond.), M.R.C.S. (Eng.).
(3) Mr. W. C. Hossack, M.D. (Aberd.)
(4) Mr. T. F. Pearse, F.R.C.S. (Eng.), D.P H (Camb.).
(5) W. A. Justice, M.B., C M. (Aberd.), D.P.H (Camb.).

As in previous years, each Special Health Officer was in charge of a definite area of the city, with an office and clerical establishment, having the assistance of Inspectors for medical and disinfection work and gangs of labourers.

5. Disinfection was carried out on a most extensive scale, and may be considered as the main instrument in the operations of the Plague Department. Details on this subject are supplied in the Report.

TEMPORARY MEASURES.

Disinfection.

Differences of opinion exist as to the results of precautionary disinfections as a preventive against the inroad of plague. The thorough disinfection of each house in the crowded areas in Calcutta may be regarded as an impossibility, and the simultaneous disinfection of any considerable portion of the city is equally impracticable. The system of evacuating houses also is inapplicable to this city. Any observation of the effect of disinfection in a house is often vitiated by the fresh importation of the disease. Grain godowns have offered serious difficulties in the work of disinfection, and in many cases constitute the breeding grounds of the disease. The returns tend to show that localities affected by plague in previous years were specially favourable for a reappearance of the disease.

It appears, however, that the disinfection of rooms in which plague has occurred proved effective in checking the recrudescence of the disease in that spot.

6. Various views are held as to the influence of rats in spreading the disease. In the opinion of the Special Health Officer they suffer in common with human beings, while Dr. Cook, the Health Officer of Calcutta, considers that the extermination of rats is one of the two measures which afford a prospect of success in dealing with plague. It appears, however, that statistics are needed to prove the beneficial effects of the operations which have been carried out in the destruction of rats in any plague-infected town. It would seem that frequently the rat mortality precedes an outbreak among human beings. A definite explanation of the connection between the two has yet to be obtained.

Rats.

7. Inoculation has not been carried out to any considerable extent. A strange feeling of opposition arose on the first introduction of the system. Dr. Cook, Health Officer, advocates the use of the plague prophylactic, and Major Deane considers the evidence in its favour to be imperfect. Reports from Bombay tend to show that inoculated persons have a greater chance of escaping the disease than uninoculated, and that when they are attacked, notwithstanding inoculation, they have a greater chance of recovery. The plague also apparently loses the character of an epidemic and becomes sporadic in a plague-infected locality, when a large proportion of the inhabitants get inoculated. Until the inhabitants appreciate the effects of the system and desire to avail themselves of its benefits, no progress can be expected in its application to the disease in Calcutta.

Inoculation.

8. A pacific policy has been pursued during the past year, and as a consequence the inhabitants offered little or no opposition to the work of the plague staff. The advantages of disinfecting plague infected houses appear to be established, and this measure should be carried out as thoroughly as possible. There is not sufficient evidence to establish the utility of disinfecting houses as a precaution against plague, and in future the energies of the Department might be directed to plague infected quarters with a greater certainty of success. The encouragement of inoculation seems advisable by affording an opportunity to those willing to undergo the operation. According to a recent authority inoculation is the most reliable and safe measure of all the temporary measures for combating the plague known up to the present time. Any attempt, however, to bring pressure on the inhabitants in this direction at present would meet with suspicion and opposition. There appears to be no cause for any departure from the policy of leaving plague patients for treatment in their houses, or requiring the evacuation of a building only for the minimum time which is necessary for disinfection.

Permanent remedy.

9. Amid the conflict of opinions regarding the origin and growth of plague, it is generally admitted that light and air are the most potent agents in its destruction, and that the removal of all obstructions to their admission constitute the most efficient measure for the prevention of the disease. Plague apparently cannot arise de novo or because of dirt, although it may be regarded as a filth disease, and the specific bacillus must be imported. The occupants of good sanitary houses escape plague in a marked degree, insanitary conditions serve to propagate the disease, and those living in dirt and squalor are most prone to attacks. It is admitted that plague is a disease of rats, and communicable from them to man. According to a recent authority the extermination of rats is futile as a remedy against plague: human beings suffer because they live like rats congregated in a filthy manner.

Disinfection, the destruction of rats and inoculation at best appear to be temporary measures. A permanent remedy appears to lie in the improvement of the general health and cleanliness of the community and the supply of pure air and water. The crowded and insanitary areas of Calcutta furnish a favourable breeding ground for the disease and call for the active interference of the reformer. Much good will be effected in carrying out the scheme which is before the Government for opening out wide thoroughfares through the crowded parts of Calcutta, and no expense should be spared in carrying out this necessary measure. The problem of dealing with insanitary bustees is now being dealt with by the Corporation, and improvements are contemplated on an extensive scale in many of those plague-spots. Proceedings are being taken in this direction under the Municipal Act, and at present preliminary measures have been adopted for dealing with 36 plague affected bustees.

Plague Regulations

10. Action was taken under the Plague Regulations with regard to three plague-infected bustees. Two entire bustees have been demolished, and in the third case the plague-infected huts have been destroyed.

Amount payable as compensation.

The municipal assessor valued the houses in each case, and the Chairman fixed accordingly the compensation. After some discussion and delay, the hut owners themselves removed the structures.

In the case of 36 plague-infected bustees an attempt is being made to introduce light and air, and to provide drains, water and latrine accommodation under Chapter XXVI of the Municipal Act.

Public conduct.

11. The attitude of the people is worthy of notice. Except in a few isolated cases, the occupants submitted without opposition to the disinfection of their houses and assisted the Plague Department as far as could be expected in the work.

Plague staff.

12. The plague staff deserve great credit for the tact and good temper which they displayed in dealing with the public. Major Deane rightly testifies to the good work done by the District Medical Officers and the cordial and zealous manner in which they have all co operated. These officers also bring a large number of the subordinate staff to special notice. I regret to record the death from cholera of Dr Chaudhuri, Medical Inspector. Major Deane has ably discharged the duties of Special Health Officer. My thanks are due to him and his staff for their services and the marked efficiency of their work.

EXTRACTS FROM THE REPORT ON PLAGUE BY MAJOR H. E. DFANE, R.A.M C, SPECIAL HEALTH OFFICER.

THIS report begins from the date on which the previous one ended, namely, 30th June 1900. It covers the period from 1st July 1900 to 18th May 1901, and it will be convenient to consider it in two parts: first, 1st July 1900 to 26th January 1901, when plague may arbitrarily be said to have been sporadic; secondly, 27th January to 18th May 1901, when epidemic.

Organisation.

As regards the organisation, there has been no change, except that the subordinate staff has been increased from time to time as occasion required.

The greatest number employed during the epidemic has been—

Medical Inspectors	18
Disinfecting Inspectors	28
Coolies	342

Sporadic period, 1st July 1900—26th January 1901.

The following are the numbers of plague attacks and deaths and suspicious deaths during the first period above mentioned—

	Plague.
	Attacks.	Deaths.	Suspicious deaths.
1900.
July	253	248	150
August	266	261	125
September	185	184	155
October	85	85	131
November	33	32	150
December	103	95	152
1901.
January 1st—26th ...	195	159	97
Total ...	1,120	1,064	960

During this period fifty cases of plague were seen alive, of which nineteen recovered, giving a mortality of 62 per cent.

There was a record of a bubo in 105 of the total 1,120 cases.

Epidemic period, 27th January—18th May 1901.

A decision as to the date of commencement of the epidemic is an arbitrary one; but going on the same principle as last year, and taking the first material rise in the plague figures as indicative of an exacerbation, this epidemic began the week ending 2nd February 1901 in Ward V.

Though starting in the same Ward as last year, the epidemic was three weeks later.

Progress of epidemic.

The following statement shows the dates of recrudescence in the various Wards:—

Week ending 2nd February ...	V.
„ „ 9th „ ...	II, VI, VII.
„ „ 16th „ ...	I.
„ „ 23rd „ ...	III, IX, XXII.
„ „ 2nd March ...	XIII, XIX, XXV.
„ „ 9th „ ...	IV, VIII, X.
„ „ 16th „ ...	XIV.
„ „ 23rd „ ...	XI.

The disease was never more than sporadic in the remaining Wards, XII, XV, XVI, XVII, XVIII, XXI, XXIII, XXIV, same as last year.

The epidemic attained its height in the week ending 23rd March, or in 9 weeks, being one week less than last year, and was declared at an end in the week ending 18th May, having lasted 16 weeks, being 9 weeks less than last year.

Cases and mortality.

There were 7,748 cases of plague with 7,016 deaths, the figures for the corresponding weeks of last epidemic being 7,084 and 6,575, giving a mortality of 90·5 per cent. and 92·6 per cent, respectively.

There were 2,326 deaths reported at the burning ghats and burial grounds as due to plague or fever with buboes; but of these 109 were either false addresses, or the people withheld information on enquiry at the addresses given.

There were 358 cases reported by private practitioners, many of which were already known to the department.

Live cases and mortality.

There were 1,801 cases seen alive, of which 1,078 died, 143 absconded, and 103 remained alive on 18th May.

Of these 1,801 cases, 438 were treated in hospitals and 337 of them died.

In calculating the rate of mortality, the cases remaining alive on 18th May and the absconded cases are eliminated.

The mortality of the hospital cases alone was 76·9 per cent.

The mortality of the cases left alone in their own quarters was 66·3 per cent.

There was a record of buboes in 3,640 cases, or 46 per cent.

Suspicious deaths.

During the early part of the epidemic, 24 suspicious deaths were recorded.

Not-found cases.

The number of not-found cases were fewer than last year by less than half, partly due to the fact that though false or insufficient addresses were given, the staff had learnt by experience where to go to find the cases.

The fewer number of not-found and the larger number of living cases recorded, I think, account for the increased amount of plague shown during the height of this epidemic as compared with that of 1900.

* * * * * *

Extent of epidemic by Wards.

The following is the statement of the extent of plague in each Ward, in order of succession:—

Ward.	Attacks.	Deaths.
V	1,487	1,327
VII	816	724
VIII	631	573
VI	538	500
III	519	470
II	517	442
IX	465	428
I	450	422
XIII	438	389
XXV	258	212
XIV	239	228
IV	212	202
X	199	191
XIX	188	187
XXII	154	147
XI	143	134
XX	83	79
XV	65	65
XXIV	57	51
XII	36	31
XVI	34	30
XXI	33	33
XXIII	27	26
XVII	19	18
XVIII	17	15
Unknown	123	92
Total ...	7,748	7,016

The order of succession follows that of last epidemic closely, which strengthens the facts recorded in last year's report to the effect that the infection is one of locality, to a great extent, even though plague cases do not occur in the same houses in successive outbreaks. The District Medical Officers' reports point clearly to the infection being one of locality. The epidemic again started in Ward V, followed by Wards II, VI, VII in the following week.

In the last epidemic the disease did not recrudesce in Ward II till the third week after V.

Details as to the recrudescence in the various Wards are unnecessary beyond the facts already given.

Character of the epidemic.

The character of the epidemic differed in some respects from that of last year, and calls for remark.

I will first compare the two epidemics as such and then compare corresponding periods of the two years. As I have said before, this epidemic began three weeks later than the last one. reached its height in 9 weeks, as compared with 10, and lasted 16 weeks as compared with 23 last year

The total plague cases and deaths were respectively for the two epidemics 7,748, 7,016 and 7,602, 7,084, showing a decrease in mortality in favour of this year.

The cases of plague at the height of this epidemic reached a higher figure than last year, by 238 only, and the deaths by 322.

Taking corresponding weeks for the two years from that ending 20th January—18th May, there were 612 more plague cases this year than last.

But if count be taken of the suspicious cases which occurred in the corresponding periods, there were 159 less plague and suspicious cases than last year.

Again, taking the plague mortality and the suspicious deaths for the corresponding periods, there were 7,489 last and 7,105 this year.

There are eleven of the twenty-five Wards which show an increase of plague cases this year, the greatest increase being under 100, in Ward VII.

Again, take a comparison by months from—

1900.	Plague.	Suspicious.	1901.	Plague.	Suspicious.
January ...	277	184	January ...	211	110
February ...	875	156	February ...	1,034	11
March ...	3,667	230	March ...	4,366	...
April ...	1,996	218	April ...	1,977	...
May (1-19) ...	484	102	May (1-18) ...	322	...
	6,299	890		7,910	121
	7,189			8,031

This shows an increase of plague and suspicious cases this year of 842, practically the difference being represented by plague.

Suspicious cases eliminated.

The experience gained now has enabled the department to eliminate suspicious cases and put them into definite categories.

I have given these comparative figures to enable independent judgments to be formed as to the severity of the outbreak, which, it was anticipated by some, would be much more severe than any previous epidemic.

It certainly reached its height, and, moreover, a greater one, in shorter period than last year, but it subsided much more rapidly; the disease recrudesced later and declined earlier

I do not think this indicates a more severe or virulent epidemic.

Has it been more virulent in the way of mortality?

Take the month in which the disease was at its worst, namely, March.

In 1900, the mortality was 90·7 per cent.; in 1901, 87·2 per cent. Take the mortality among the cases which were seen alive in that month. In 1900, it was 64·6 per cent.; in 1901, 60 5 per cent.

Again, taking the plague mortality for the first four months of each year, we find it was 91 per cent. in 1900 and 86 per cent. in 1901. Considering the ground covered by all the preceding facts, I have no hesitation in saying that, so far from this epidemic having been in any sense more severe or virulent, it has been mitigated, and that it is cause for congratulation that it should have been so.

I give brief reports by the District Medical Officers dealing with various points of interest.

District I N, Wards I, II, III, in charge of Dr. Crake.

A note by Dr. Crake on the occurrence of plague in dâl godowns.

One of the most striking features of the epidemic of 1901 in District I. N was the marked intensity of the outbreaks in dâl and grain godowns. In the whole district there are about forty such godowns, and only two out of this number have not returned cases of plague.

Of even more importance, however, is the fact that all these dâl godowns have suffered much more severely than last year. There were 181 more cases of plague during January—May in the district than last year, and 5 groups of dâl godowns accounted for 43 per cent. of the increase.

In addition to dâl godowns, there are many instances of ordinary bustees, in one portion of which grain, etc., is stored.

Another factor of prime importance is that coolies who work amongst dâl and grain live in ordinary bustees to which they apparently bring infection.

The large number of cases in Durga Charan Mitter's Street was chiefly amongst coolies working in grain godowns near the river. In a similar manner, other streets in which plague has been more severe this year can be shewn to have a more or less close connection with either dâl godowns or grain.

Many examples might be taken which would demonstrate that not only do dâl godowns return a large percentage of the total number of cases, but that they shew a rapid sequence of groups of cases quite unparalleled in any of the bustees in the district, however filthy and insanitary.

The next noteworthy point follows naturally.

It is this. That round these areas in which plague is so virulent, pucca buildings suffer far more severely than in any other portions of the district and present groups of cases.

This has been very noticeable during the last epidemic, especially when it is borne in mind—

(i) Pucca buildings elsewhere have not suffered very much.

(ii) When they have been infected, it has been quite the exception to find groups of cases.

In the fact that these godowns have an enormous rat population dwelling in a complicated system of burrows, of whose extent we have no idea, and that many hundreds of rats may be infected with plague in quite a limited area, may lie the explanation of the appallingly virulent outbreaks in these localities.

Rats in dâl godowns.

To quote a striking case, take 106 and 107 Ahireetollah Street.

From one lane about 40 yards in length, with godowns on each side of it, over 1,000 rats were removed during disinfecting operations and cremated.

Five or six examined bacteriologically on different occasions shewed the plague bacillus. Some 300 odd rats were caught and killed by my coolies, but over 600 were found dead.

There was a definite history of rat mortality before the first case of plague in this instance.

Then, again, in other godowns, it seems that rat mortality is simultaneous with, or even later than, the plague cases Negative evidence of rat mortality, however, is very unreliable.

Note on 44 Musjidbaree Street (a dâl godown).

This is a very interesting case. During the epidemic of 1900, 10 cases of plague occurred here

The inhabitants fled away up-country till the epidemic was over, and, on their return, did away with the dâl sheds entirely, leaving an open space at the back of their huts, but leaving nearly all the latter intact, i.e., the population during this last epidemic has been about the same. This year only two cases, one of which was an imported one, have occurred during the whole epidemic; whereas, judging by the rest of the Musjidbaree Street dâl godowns, an increase of from 50 per cent. to 100 per cent. might reasonably have been expected.

Whatever the Corporation may or may not be able to do either in the way of model godowns built on concrete, or by acquiring and destroying some of the worst of the existing ones, this little example is distinctly encouraging One has reluctantly to confess that chemical disinfection of these godowns seems impracticable.

Similarly, one must except the wretched hovels built over reeking cow-sheds, where carters most do congregate.

With these exceptions, however, the results of disinfection, which has been carried out much more extensively than last year, are satisfactory.

DISTRICT I. S, WARDS IV, V, VI, IN CHARGE OF DR. PETTIFER.

Report on Plague in District IS from 1st January to 30th April 1901.

In this report I take the period of January to April as including the epidemic in both 1900 and 1901.

The total number of cases in the two years are as follows :—

1900.	Seizures.	Deaths.	1901.	Seizures.	Deaths.
Ward 4 ...	226	222	Ward 4 ...	198	189	In 1901. Seizures = + 16
„ 5 ..	1,495	1,385	„ 5 ...	1,526	1,375	Deaths = — 54
„ 6 ...	507	494	„ 6 ...	520	483
Total ...	2,228	2,101	Total ...	2,244	2, 47

i.e. in Ward 4 there were 28 fewer seizures ; 33 fewer deaths.
„ 5 „ 81 more „ 10 „
„ 6 „ 13 more „ 11 „

These differences are very small compared to the totals, and are simply due, I think, to a rather larger proportion of living cases having been discovered than in 1900.

* * * * * * * *

In March I began the attempt to totally disinfect, not only the deceased's room, but as many others as possible in houses in which a series of cases was occurring.

Disinfection.

In 10 instances this procedure was successful, no more cases occurring. In two instances one further case only occurred.

In two instances a few more cases developed.

The following case seems to be a good instance of the value of disinfection :—

At a hut, 102 Amherst Street, rats were dying about 10th April 1901. A death from plague occurred on 21st April 1901. Two plague cases absconded, at this time from another room which was found locked and not disinfected. The rest of the house was disinfected.

Later a man returned and lived in the locked-up room. He died of plague on 8th May 1901, Very few other cases were occurring in the neighbourhood.

Rats.

The causal connection between rat and human plague is more plainly marked than in 1900 even. In every street or bustee in which rats were found to be dying of plague, the rat mortality preceded the human.

I have a list of 235 houses in which rat mortality preceded the onset of the disease in the inmates. I have also a list of 446 separate observations of dead rats being found from 4th December 1900 to 30th April 1901.

DISTRICT II, WARDS VII TO XII INCLUSIVE, IN CHARGE OF DR. HOSSACK.

"Characters of 1901 Plague Epidemic."

It has long been held that the mortality rate varies at different periods of an epidemic; and, as the excessively high death-rate just before and at the height of this year's outbreak was very striking, I have worked out the figures for my district. The figures corroborate very strikingly the general impression gathered during the epidemic.

Number of weeks in epidemic	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13	14	15
Percentage of recoveries ...	40	33·3	25	22·2	22·2	26·9	22·8	29·4	31·0	72·2	43·7	33·3	66·6	50	...

If fortnightly periods are taken instead of weekly, the increase of recovery rate as the epidemic decreases is equally well shewn.

1	2	3	4	5	6	7
36·3	23·0	24·4	25·6	44·6	50·0	60·0

It should be noted that cases lost sight of or in which the result is not known have not been included. This can affect the figures little, if any, as the presumption is that cases lost sight of died and recovered in the same ratio as the cases when the result was known The total number of cases seen alive was 428, of which in 64 the result is not known. There are 109 recoveries = 29·7 per cent. against 27·6 for last year.

Plague incidence per infected house.—The general average of cases per infected house shows only a slight increase over last year, 2·64 against 2·37, in Ward VII. On the other hand, there is a larger number of houses badly infected and shewing numerous cases. Last year there were 17 houses in Ward VII showing six cases and over with a total of 145 cases for the 17 houses. This year there are 25 houses that shew 6 cases and over, and the total for these houses is 219 cases. I have remarked the same thing in Wards VIII and IX, but it has been impossible to work out the exact figures. The number of houses that shew only one case is still rather remarkable; this year out of 268 infected houses in Ward VII no less than 116 shewed only 1 case; last year out of 225 infected houses 102 shewed only 1 case.

C. HOSSACK, M.D. (Aberd.)

DISTRICT III, WARDS XIII TO XX, EXCLUDING XVIII, IN CHARGE OF DR. PEARSE.

Dr. Pearse's remarks concerning the incidence of plague cases in particular houses.

District III, comprising Wards 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 19 and 20, affords exceptional opportunities for following the incidence of plague cases to particular houses, because, with the exception of the European quarter, the habitations of the population are almost entirely one-storied huts. Out of 629 cases which have occurred between 1st January and 31st March, in these Wards only 33 occurred in pucca houses, and by keeping careful records of the exact location of each case as it was reported, it has been possible to identify the room or hut where each previous case occurred in it. We find that 46 cases (or 7 per cent.) occurred in the same rooms as had cases in them last year (1900); and 174 cases (or 26 per cent.) occurred in the same houses (that is in rooms covered by the same roof) as had cases last year. These figures have been worked out for the purpose of shewing whether the recurrence of cases in the same room or the same house one year after another is sufficiently frequent to suggest that the virus of plague remains in the habitation, or whether it is re-imported at each outbreak, and its occurrence in particular rooms or houses is merely an accident of population. On the theory that the poison remains in some way attached to the habitation, it must be assumed that it revives into activity after a dormant period of about a twelve month. In support of this theory it has been urged that the development of the outbreak in Calcutta has not radiated from any particular centre and been gradually diffused over the city, but that the recrudescence has occurred more or less simultaneously in all parts, although certain Wards may have suffered earlier than others. This course of the plague recrudescence in Calcutta, which, however, may not be accepted by all, is therefore suggestive of the infected habitation and of the revival of the poison in it under unknown conditions, but at apparently regular intervals. The above figures may be looked upon by some as also supporting this theory. Although seven per cent recurrence in the same identical rooms as those of last year is perhaps a small percentage, there are the twenty six per cent. recurrences under the same roofs as those of last year. Again out of the 629 cases this year only 276 were single isolated attacks in the same number of entirely separate houses, while 353 cases occurred in houses which had had previous cases this year. Many of the latter cases, however, viz., 54 instances comprising at least 108 attacks, occurred more or less simultaneously, so that their infection may be put down either to the habitation or to personal contact.

We have still sixteen instances of cases which recurred in the same infected rooms this year, in which there was an interval of more than the incubation period of ten days between the death of one person and the attack of the other. This evidence, if of any value, is in favour of re-infection from the habitation itself, although the numbers are so small, that their incidence in the same room might perhaps be equally a matter of accident. On this question it must be admitted there is absolutely no proof that the bacillus of plague remains dormant in an habitation and revives into activity at certain times. It has never been found apart from some animal body, so that the recurrence of cases in the same room or in the same house in a large percentage (after the recognized interval between the cases) is the only evidence available to support this theory. Whether the abovementioned figures are sufficient is a matter of opinion.

Another point of interest brought out by a detailed examination of the reports furnished by the Medical Inspectors to the Divisional Medical Officers concerns the average duration of an attack of plague. The histories of cases show varying periods of illness, but the average of 550 cases is seven and a quarter days.

T. F. PEARSE, F.R.C.S. (Eng.), D.PH. (Camb.).

DISTRICT IV, WARDS XVIII, XXI TO XXV, IN CHARGE OF DR. JUSTICE.

Note by Dr. Justice.

The chief incident of note is that areas which have been infected in previous epidemics have become re-infected this year, while other areas previously infected have almost entirely escaped. The overcrowded and congested areas of Kalibazaar, Watgunge and Munshigunge Road may now be looked upon as "plague spots," in which the disease may with certainty be expected to recur, if some improvements in the shape of opening out the area and the prevention to some extent of the overcrowding in the houses are not taken in hand. During the three epidemics these areas have suffered very severely. The disease has not become epidemic to any appreciable extent in any other part of the Ward 25. The first case in Kalibazaar after careful investigation, we were informed, was a spice merchant who visited Burra Bazaar daily.

At Munshigunge Road, so far as could be traced, the first was a gariwalla plying between this locality and Burra Bazaar.

At Kalibazaar the people of the locality obtain most of their provisions and visit the bazaar daily for this purpose. Most of the cases found in the bazaar have been in grain shops. It is almost impossible to disinfect these thoroughly on account of the large quantities of grain stored in them. I consider this a potent factor in prolonging the epidemic in these parts of Ward 25 The huts and shops in the bazaar are much too closely packed together, and the bazaar in my opinion ought to be opened out. An improved method of storing grain might be devised.

It is no uncommon occurrence to find a plague patient lying on sacks which are full of grain. The danger of this is evident.

In Orphangunge Market during the three epidemics, cases have occurred in that part of the market where the spaces between the stalls are so narrow that the entrance of light and the circulation of air are interfered with. The more open part of the market has remained free from plague. I am indebted to the Superintendent of the Market for his co-operation in clearing the shops of their contents and exposing them to the sun's rays. The huts were then thoroughly disinfected, and no more cases occurred

In Watgunge Street, where many of the coolies of Kalibazaar reside, 56 cases occurred The same conditions as regards overcrowding and congestion of houses exist here also. I think, perhaps, under these circumstances, we have reason to congratulate ourselves there have not been more cases.

At Munshigunge Road the disease at first spread alarmingly. The people belonged to a very low caste They resorted to all manner of devices to conceal their sick. They removed their dead bodies to Jingrapole, which is outside Calcutta, for burial, in order to avoid subsequent disinfection. There were 36 cases here.

Comédan Bagan bustee became infected from Kalibazaar. The people are Muhammadans, and they concealed their cases from us From the 23rd February till 23rd April there were 45 cases. In no instance did a second case occur in a house after disinfection Children who had a mild attack were allowed to run about the bustee, and it was with difficulty the mother could find them when we asked to see them.

To obtain early information of cases and deaths these infected areas were visited morning and afternoon, and by making friends with one or two of the neighbours we came across cases we should otherwise have missed. At the same time a disinfecting gang was in attendance, and when a death occurred the house was immediately cleared and disinfected.

In contrast to the above instances where much opposition was met with, we have in Ward 22 an example of what can be done when the people assist us. This Ward is third on the list as regards population in Calcutta, and only 158 cases of plague occurred. In 30 instances they came from infected parts of Calcutta, and after disinfection no more cases occurred. Last epidemic there were 239 cases.

At Kalighat, Gangaram bustee and Sitaram bustee, which were badly infected in 1899, only a few sporadic or imported cases occurred during the epidemics of 1900-1901.

In the whole of District IV, 546 cases occurred compared with 702 last year; 130 living cases were seen, of whom 45 recovered: 3 were removed to hospital at their own request, and 7 absconded.

WM. A. JUSTICE, M.B.C.M. (Aberd.), D.H.P. (Camb.), District Medical Officer.

The 1st June 1901.

General Remarks by Major H. E. Deane.

Disinfection.

During the epidemic of 1900, as stated in the last report, the Lieutenant-Governor desired that rooms and houses, other than those in which plague was known to have occurred, should be disinfected. While the epidemic was at its height, it was impracticable to carry this out to any great extent, but a start was made, and from 24th February—30th June 1900, 4,539 rooms were done, over and above those which were disinfected for plague or suspicious cases having actually occurred in them. At the close of that epidemic the energies of the department were directed to this work, the object being to try to destroy or modify the infection in such a manner as to ameliorate the possible and indeed probable succeeding epidemic.

It was not thought that another epidemic could be prevented altogether, but it was hoped that some beneficial results would issue.

It was an experiment worth trying. A large amount of passive opposition had to be overcome, but the work progressed uninterruptedly and with no disturbance whatever.

The method adopted was that recommended by the Indian Plague Commission and endorsed by the Government of India to be adopted in actual plague-infected rooms. The recommendation was to disinfect the floors of the rooms and 2—3 feet up the walls, the operation being carried out by means of buckets and brooms.

The recommendation appears to be based on the supposition, supported by no evidence that the contagion of plague is chiefly, if not entirely, confined to the floors.

However, acting on this, we were enabled to get an amount of work done which would have been quite impossible, had we attempted more extensive operations.

In cases where the people raised objections to our coolies doing the work, they were encouraged to do it themselves, whole bustees sometimes being done in this way, under the supervision of our disinfecting staff, and the District Medical Officers themselves.

All the infected bustees were done, and whole streets in infected areas, the number of rooms disinfected between 1st July 1900 and 26th January 1901 being 284,554.

When the epidemic began in the week ending 2nd February 1901, the extra work was still prosecuted, some localities being done two and three times over.

The total number of rooms done up to 4th May 1901, was 396,602.

Before dealing with either any measure of success which may be said to have attended the extensive precautionary disinfecting measures adopted here prior to the outbreak this year, or any failure attendant thereon, with reasons therefor, I think it necessary, for a due appreciation of the subject, to bring some facts concerning disinfection briefly to the notice of the reader.

This is the more necessary, because two dangers are ahead, one of unduly magnifying the results of disinfection; secondly, of declaring the results to be nil, when any failure depends on imperfect methods, calling for careful consideration as to how they can be improved, and not as to whether they should be stopped altogether.

In considering disinfection here, I refer simply to the use of chemical agents, and am not being concerned with whether they act by oxidation, de-oxidation, or any other process.

The object of such disinfection is to destroy, prevent the growth of or arrest the virulence of the infective material presumably the cause of the disease to be dealt with. We know that light and air do not prevent the spread of all infectious diseases to an equal extent; to prove which one only has to see various infectious diseases, dealing death and destruction of health in the mansions of the rich as in the hovels of the poor.

The ground-work of practical disinfection is the experience gained in surgery and midwifery. In the former sphere it has enabled the surgeon to confidently perform operations which previously he dared not do, and if he did, the risk of death from septic diseases was frightful.

In the latter sphere it has rendered lying-in hospitals about the safest places for a woman, instead of entry into them being tantamount to signing her death-warrant.

In both these spheres the application of chemical agents to everybody and everything connected with a patient is constant and unremitting, and this, moreover, in the presence of good general hygienic arrangements, and in the absence of any known certain source of possible infection.

Thus everything being considered to be potential of infective risk is disinfected.

When a septic poison gets access to a limited locality, say, an operating theatre or a lying-in ward, and evades the chemical agents designed for its destruction, experience shows that a more thorough application of the disinfecting agents, combined with other general hygienic measures, will assuredly get rid of the poison. I say this from practical experience in a lying-in hospital.

All this shows that a limited locality may be rendered safe from the development of septic poisoning, and that it may also be cleansed from the material when it has once displayed its destructive properties. But these localities, however limited in extent, differ in construction, material, and capabilities of being kept free from infective material, or aseptic technically called; for instance, an operating theatre in an up-to-date hospital, and a room in a Calcutta slum present different degrees of practicability as to precautionary measures.

Experience then shows that individual people in circumscribed localities can be preserved from septic disease by preventing the entrance or development of infective material in breaches of surface as met with in surgery and midwifery.

When we come to the application of this, on a larger scale, to the general infective diseases, we find ourselves mostly defeated, individual people perhaps being protected, but no result in staying the ravages of an epidemic.

Some of the reasons are very obvious. To begin with, we have very little knowledge of the method by which infection spreads, and none as to how it originates; and the little knowledge we have of methods of spread, as in the case of typhoid fever, does not enable us to prevent it, either because our attacks on the known points are ineffective, or because other points exist of which we are ignorant and with which we cannot deal.

Further, as we do not know the means of spread, we do not know what to disinfect; equally the surgeon does not know on what a poison may or may not be lurking, so he disinfects everything coming in contact with the patient.

This means we should also disinfect everything likely to harbour infection, from which people may get disease in time of a threatening epidemic.

But the task is such an impracticable one that no attempt is made to check any epidemic by such means; disinfection simply being confined to patients, their clothes and immediate surroundings. Even this procedure is by no means based on solid foundations, as evidenced by the numerous agents recommended and advertised under the ægis of the profession, which shows that once we leave the operating room and lying-in ward with their perchloride of mercury disinfectant, great practical difficulties, either of expense or other kinds exist in the way of efficient disinfection.

Still, buildings in which infectious diseases have occurred have been rendered safe for occupation by disinfection; which proves, what I said before, that when infection concerns a more or less limited locality, it can be destroyed.

So I think, we have a priori grounds for attempting, not only to destroy infection in localities in which its presence has been demonstrated, but also to prevent its development in localities which may become infected.

To take the former case first. Our previous experience repeated itself this year, namely that when a case of plague had occurred in a room, no more cases recurred after disinfection. The value of this room disinfection is strikingly illustrated by Dr. Pettifer, who gives an instance in his report of a room escaping disinfection owing to being locked up, and a subsequent occupant becoming attacked by plague.

I must say here that this class of disinfection was always done more thoroughly than the other, which will come under consideration directly. The disinfecting solution was pumped all over the roof and walls of rooms, and where possible clothes were disinfected by steam.

But when we come to the attempts to prevent the development of infection, we have to confess that our hopes were not fulfilled, though personally I think not altogether annulled.

The experiment was the more justified, because there can be no doubt that these succeeding outbreaks are due to a recrudescence of an infection, which had been latent, and not to any fresh introduction of it. Moreover, there is distinct evidence of the infection recrudescing in the same localities or areas, though not necessarily the same houses.

There are several notorious plague spots which have been considerably less stricken this year, and one would naturally say, as the result of our disinfection. But such a conclusion would have to be discounted by the fact that infection has been diffused over other areas also disinfected.

Whether the precautionary disinfections were only partially successful, or a total failure, we must consider the why and wherefore. The task set us of disinfecting the whole of the native quarters of Calcutta systematically was a colossal one, even to perform partially; but to perform it completely would be Herculean.

A similar experiment was made at Bihar and other towns; but I am not aware of the results.

It will be remembered that early in this report I said that the method adopted was that recommended by the Indian Plague Commission for actual plague rooms. The method has not been adopted here for actual plague rooms, as being obviously insufficient. The method is flushing the floors with mercury solution 1/1000 and sweeping it about with brooms and also brushing 2 or 3 feet up the walls with the solution. The one advantage of this procedure is that it raises less opposition on the part of the population than anything more thorough, and that is a very important advantage, provided that only a modicum of success be attendant thereon.

The practical difficulties in carrying out this task of disinfecting rooms in the interval of epidemics are worth considering, in view of possible suggestions as to improvement of the method adopted.

The first difficulty is to get the floors disinfected properly. Objections were raised to removing cooking pots, which often had to be allowed; the Marwaris, always a stumbling block in the way, objected to raise their mats and carpets, which objection had often to be allowed. In many cases rooms were so filled with beds and structures of sorts, that it was impossible to empty them; the solution being thrown under the beds only, but the walls defying access.

In other cases, rooms were so packed with nondescript articles that it would have taken a couple of hours to empty and disinfect one room, not allowing for the time taken up in wrangling, explaining, and listening to feminine vituperations.

So much for getting at the floors.

Now, for the walls.

If a pucka built room be emptied, the walls may be brushed down; but in this connection I may mention brooms are, and must be used, and the amount of solution that can be got on to a wall in this way it insignificant.

It is possible to get the solution more or less into the interstices of a kutcha wall by means of a pump, but to dip the broom of the country into the solution and get it on the wall is a physical impossibility.

It may be said that the solution should be thrown from a bucket on to the wall; even so, an ounce will stick to the wall and the remaining pints or gallons go on the floor.

This floor disinfection apparently is based on the gratuitous assumption that the infection is more or less confined thereto.

It ignores the collection of rags of all sorts stuffed away in the roof, and indeed it is a marvel to see the amount of things which can be packed away in a hut.

We know absolutely nothing of the nature or whereabouts of the plague infection, therefore the indication is to deal with everything that could possibly harbour it; and certainly the whole of a room—roof, walls and floor—should be as thoroughly disinfected as practicable.

As regards clothing, it is extremely difficult to get hold of the bedding and clothing of plague cases, and the question of disinfecting clothing during such an experiment as we carried out here is too impracticable to discuss.

Another very real and practical difficulty is confronted when we come to grain stores and godowns.

It is not practicable to empty them, and they cannot be disinfected otherwise.

Where it was possible to a limited extent it was done, but it was like disinfecting a pebble on the sea-shore.

A visit to the localities will make the point clearer than any writing.

Unfortunately, as Drs. Crake, Pettifer and Justice show, dâl godowns form the happy hunting ground of infection, and even if the infection be directly connected with the grain, large quantities of which are constantly being exposed to direct sunlight, and presumably naturally disinfected, it is not possible to get at the grain stores to effectively deal with them.

The conclusion seems to me to be this.

The results of the extra work done were not sufficient to urge a repetition of the experiment with the limited disinfection that was applied; but, if practicable, I would repeat it on a more thorough scale, and have the work done in a much shorter time, say a month before an expected recrudescence of plague, sufficient men being employed to carry on the work simultaneously all over the city.

Advisedly I say IF practicable.

Perhaps some scheme might be devised for clearing out some of the grain godowns, and would be worth carrying out even at some expense.

The only remaining procedure is disinfection of rooms in which plague is known to have occurred.

This should be done, and done as thoroughly as is possible; and we have the satisfaction of knowing that it is possible to do so to the extent of preventing any immediate recurrence of the disease, except in those persons in whom it was incubating at the time of disinfection.

The procedure should be repeated after every such recurrence.

The only addition to this procedure of single-room disinfection which could be carried out at all completely is disinfection of all other rooms covered by the same roof, and these should be done as thoroughly as the known infected room, and clothing dealt with as well.

This alone is a task of no mean magnitude, especially in the central part of the city.

There is one other conclusion.

We know that disinfection in the instances which I gave as forming the groundwork of experience in the process has to be constant, and also that if a substance be not susceptible of a confident disinfection or is even known originally to be badly infected, it is destroyed.

There are foul spots in Calcutta, which have been repeatedly disinfected, pitch-dark rooms with damp, stagnant air, and the immediate environments being such that they are not susceptible of efficient chemical disinfection.

The moral is plain—destroy them.

It is a satisfaction to know, in view of yet another possible epidemic, that a start is being now made in this direction.

Evacuation.

It may or may not be a source of wonder that one still hears remarks about evacuation and segregation in a city like this. I have never heard a suggestion though as to how it is to be done. The subject of evacuation in a large town has long passed out of the range of useful discussion.

It is easier to understand that some might advise removal of the sick to isolation hospitals, if the people would only allow it, which they will not, so there is not much use discussing it. Still, it is well to bear in mind one or two points connected with such isolation.

Plague is a disease only slightly, if at all, directly contagious.

It seems more to the point to deal with the patient's habitation and environments.

A paper has lately been read before the "Society of Medical Officers of Health" in England, urging that the hospital isolation of scarlet fever patients in towns has failed either to lessen the prevalence of the disease, or to reduce the mortality, and further, that any diminution in the mortality has occurred in the large towns which have not practised hospital isolation.

Now, scarlet fever has a high degree of direct contagion.

Another point, perhaps the most important, is that compulsory hospital isolation has been tried in large towns in this country and signally failed either to lessen the outbreak or mortality of the disease; so the procedure as regards towns during a plague epidemic in this country may also be confidently placed outside the bounds of useful discussion.

Inoculation.

There were 107 people inoculated during the epidemic.

Casualties among the staff

One coolie contracted plague and died, and one peon at the Head Office, who recovered.

None of the coolies had been inoculated.

One Medical Inspector, Dr. Chowdhury, died of cholera after a few hours' illness.

He had done hard and excellent work in the department, and his death is much to be regretted.

Spread of plague.—If so be it, that clothes are a medium of carrying infection, the difficulty we experience in getting the bedding and clothing of plague patients is a weak point in our organisation. But it is a point on which we are easily defeated by people who do not wish us to get them.

The great satisfactory point, which I insisted on last year, has gained strength this year, namely, that a plague-infected room can be rendered safe for immediate occupation by disinfection. However, this will not prevent the recurrence probably twelve months afterwards.

Rats.—I do not propose considering these in detail, as I did last year. I have become acquainted with no facts to lead me to change my opinion then expressed, that rats have practically no concern in the spread of plague.

I gave facts then showing that human plague preceded rat mortality in Calcutta, and that there was no evidence to lead one to suppose there was any connection between rats and the subsequent spread of the plague. It will not be out of place to consider how the case stands elsewhere.

I have carefully analysed all the references to rats in the Bombay Plague Report, compiled by Captain Coudon, Indian Staff Corps, and published in 1900.

It is therein stated that "rats are particularly affected by the disease, and they are, in all probability, the chief disseminators of infection."

There are 16 references given to the occurrence of human plague and rat mortality, in various parts of the Bombay Presidency, and in 12 of these the history of human plague having preceded rat mortality is clear.

In one instance there is a doubt as to the time of the first appearance of human plague, and it is impossible to say whether it preceded, was synchronous with, or followed rat mortality.

In one instance only it is stated that rat mortality preceded the appearance of human plague (at Cheul).

In one instance it is stated "infection conveyed by rats seemed the more probable cause of a case in a Memon compound not far removed from the Mochi's house."

In one instance the opinion is expressed that at Salaya in the Kattiawar State "everything points to its inception through rats;" and the same writer then says: "At any rate, the plague in Salaya must be classed as indigenous."

I will give details of one reference, as an example—

Between 12th August and 12th October 1897, there were 26 cases of plague imported into Nassik from Igatpuri.

Dr. Maynard states that on the 12th October a case occurred which could not be traced to infection from outside Nassik. The case occurred in a house in the same part of the town in which most of the imported cases had been found. This house was found to have been also occupied just previously by seven people, who had come direct from Igatpuri.

Captain Coudon, I.S.C., then writes: "The manner of dissemination was obscure, but in Dr. Maynard's opinion rats were apparently closely connected with it." I cannot discover from the report that Dr. Maynard draws that inference. Dr. Maynard states clearly that human plague cases were occurring exactly two months before any dead rats were seen; and he further states that "in a great many cases the source of infection could be directly traced to another cause."

The evidence furnished in the report is precise as to human plague preceding rat mortality, and is directly adverse to the opinion expressed, apparently by a layman, that "rats . . . . . are, in all probability, the chief disseminators of infection." The recorded evidence dealing with the Bombay Presidency, and with this city of Calcutta, suggests that they certainly are not the chief disseminators of infection.

There is another point connected with this question, and that is destruction of rats as a precautionary measure. As a general measure there is nothing to be said against it, but it would be very misleading to any administrative authority to recommend it on the ground that it would have the slightest effect in preventing or mitigating an epidemic of plague. In a report on plague in Bombay up to 31st May 1900, just received, it appears that the destruction of rats has been carried on extensively, over 300,000 having been killed in 1899-1900.

However, beyond that statement, I can find nothing to show what effect, if any, the destruction had on plague among the human population. The natural inference is that none was observed.

The procedure usually suggested over and above the historical one of "first catch your rat," is that of destruction by bacterial infection.

The most extensive experiments on the destruction of animals in this way, with which I am acquainted, have taken place in Australia, and facts connected therewith have been communicated to me by Dr. Tidswell of the New South Wales Board of Health, who was lately deputed to India to observe matters relating to plague here, and who carried out the plague measures in the recent outbreak in Sydney.

Three varieties of bacilli have been tested—

(1) Bacillus of chicken cholera (Pasteur) for the destruction of rabbits.

(2) Bacillus of mouse typhoid (Lœffler) for flying-foxes and rats.

(3) Danysz's bacillus for rats.

The general results of experiments in the laboratory and in the field were similar with all the species. When the animals were inoculated or fed with infected materials, they died, but did not transmit disease to their associates.

No epizootic was established either in the laboratory or in the field. In the case of the flying-foxes, infected material which was put on trees and destined for their destruction was avoided by them, but eaten by harmless birds with fatal results, and the experiment was stopped.

In two field trials upon rats, one with Lœffler's bacillus, and the other with Danysz's bacillus, the rats disappeared after eating the infected bait, bread soaked in broth cultures.

But no dead rats were found, either on the surface, or in the runs dug up in search of them.

In two or three weeks the rats reappeared. In the case of the trial with Lœffler's bacillus at the Leper Lazaret, it was reported by ambulance drivers living about a mile away across uninhabited country, that there was a great increase of rats about their houses at a date coincident with that of their disappearance from the lazaret; the drivers being unaware of the experiment being made.

Dr. Tidswell concluded that the facts appeared to indicate that the laying of infected baits produced not a destruction, but merely an instinctive migration from a place where the animals were being subjected to injury, as is known to happen at times after the laying of rat pastes or other mineral poisons.

I think the above facts will not form a basis for recommending the destruction of rats by bacterial infection.

To ensure destruction, the animal must either be inoculated or fed with the infected material, either of which procedure entails the necessity of first catching the rat, after which other and simpler methods of destruction suggest themselves.

Once more it is a pleasing duty to testify to the good work done by the District Medical Officers, and to personally tender them my thanks for the cordial and zealous way in which they have all co-operated.

Again, the heaviest part of the epidemic fell on Dr. Pettifer, but where all have been actuated by a high sense of duty and displayed marked abilities, it is not a task I propose to set myself to attempt to draw any distinctions.

It has been a pleasure to me to be associated in our work with my confrères

No. 1681 $\frac{\text{Medl.}}{\text{P.}}$, dated Calcutta, the 27th August 1901.

From—H. M. KISCH, Esq., Offg. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal, Municipal Dept.,
To—The Chairman of the Calcutta Corporation.

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. $\frac{\text{II}}{840}$, dated the 3rd August 1901, submitting a copy of a Report on Plague in Calcutta by Major H. E. Deane, R.A.M.C., Special Health Officer of Calcutta, for the period between the 30th June 1900 and the 18th May 1901.

2. The history of the outbreak of 1901 completes the experience of the preceding two years that in Calcutta plague in its epidemic form has a clearly defined season. It begins in February and dies down rapidly in April. Again, while there is evidence of constantly increasing strength as to the immediate benefit from disinfection, there is not equally good evidence as to the duration of its efficacy. There is, therefore, now justification for contracting the period in each year during which precautionary measures are to be taken within the town, and confining them, as Major Deane suggests, to the period of the epidemic and about a month before its expected return. Whatever is practicable in the way of general disinfection should then be done, and the Lieutenant-Governor agrees with Major Deane that the disinfection should, if possible, be of a more thorough character than hitherto.

3. The immediate efficacy of disinfection in the case of infected houses and infected areas may now, the Lieutenant-Governor considers, be taken as established. It is, and perhaps will always be, a question whether the scheme of wholesale disinfection which was carried out during the summer and autumn of 1900 was worth the labour and expense it involved. Some will say it had no effect: others that the epidemic of 1900 was six times more severe than that of 1899, and that it was only the wholesale cleansing and disinfection undertaken last summer which prevented the epidemic of 1901 from being in its turn six times as severe as its precursor. One good effect of the measure, however, is indisputable. The quiet and patient application of disinfection in the free season accustomed the people to its use, and when the epidemic did arrive, they accepted the rapid expansion of operations, not only without disturbance or even opposition, but with a good-will and co-operation which were invaluable in checking the disease. The Lieutenant-Governor has no doubt that, should another epidemic unhappily occur next spring, the people will submit willingly to the complete disinfection of every room in infected houses—the measure on which Major Deane relies as the most useful and efficacious.

4. The Lieutenant-Governor has learned with satisfaction from the proceedings of the Municipal meetings as well as from your present report that the Corporation have begun to deal with a certain number of plague-infected and congested bustees in a thorough and systematic manner.

5. Sir John Woodburn has much pleasure in heartily endorsing your opinion as to the admirable manner in which Major Deane and his staff have discharged their duties.

The 21st August 1901.—The following extracts from the Resolution and Returns of the Board of Revenue on the work of the Income-Tax Department in Bengal in the year 1900-1901 are published for general information.

Offg. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

INCOME-TAX.

THE HON'BLE MR. J. A. BOURDILLON, C.S.I.

Dated Calcutta, the 31st July 1901.

STATISTICAL information regarding the Income-Tax Department for the year 1900-1901 is submitted with reference to the Government of India's Resolution No. 2316S.R., dated the 8th May 1901.

* * * * *

3. The following statement compares the receipts, charges and net revenue with those of the previous year :—

—	Receipts.	Charges.	Percentage of charges.	Net revenue.
	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
1900-1901 ...	52,64,685	1,99,759	3 8	50,64,926
1899-1900 ..	52,21,051	2,02,322	3·9	50,18,729
	+43,634	—2,563	—·1	+46,197

The net revenue shows an increase of ·9 per cent., as compared with an increase of 2 3 per cent. in 1899-1900.

4. Return No. III.—There is a noticeable decrease under the following heads in the Income-tax receipts :—

	Decrease.
	Rs.
(a) Profits of companies	51,499
(b) Interest on securities	2,785
(c) Penalties	2,189

The decrease under "Profits of companies" is mainly attributed to slackness in the jute trade, to stagnation in the cotton industry, and to the reduced profits of the Darjeeling-Himalayan Railway Company and the Woodlands Hotel Company, owing to the landslip disaster of September 1899, which kept away visitors from Darjeeling in the following season.

The decrease under "Interest on securities" is nearly made up by an arrear collection of Rs. 6,982, against Rs. 4,764 collected in the previous year.

The decrease under "Penalties" appears to be due to ordinary fluctuation in certain districts, but in the case of Purnea it is explained as due to penalties equal to one-third of the demand only being imposed instead of penalties equal to the full demand, as in previous years.

5. Return No. V.—The only large variation noticeable in this return is in the figures shown under the heading "Remitted as irrecoverable." The increase is due to the fact that a large sum of Rs. 28,453, the irrecoverable balance on account of the year 1897-98 in Calcutta, was remitted by the Board during the year under review.

6. Return No. VI.—The number of persons finally assessed shows an increase of 2,750 persons or 2·4 per cent., as compared with 2·6 during the previous year. Calcutta shows an increase of 761 persons, as compared with 1,517 persons in 1899-1900. Next comes Midnapore, with an increase of 218 persons, following on an increase of 202 in the preceding year ; then come Hooghly, the Sonthal Parganas, Darbhanga, Khulna, Chittagong, Jalpaiguri, and Murshidabad, with an increase varying from 200 to 100 persons. The increase in Calcutta is due to an increase in the number of employés on the East Indian and Bengal-Nagpur Railways, and also to the discovery of many new assessees. A few districts show a decrease, principally Dinajpur (126), Noakhali, (122) and the 24-Parganas (105). The decrease in Dinajpur is the result of the exercise of greater discrimination in assessing. As the incidence of taxation there is still noticeably high, the reduction is probably quite justifiable. The decrease in Noakhali is attributed to exemptions being granted to money-lenders, boat-owners and grain-dealers, in consequence of a decline in their business. This district, however, as will be seen from a reference to Appendix VIII attached to last year's report, has been assessed with extreme leniency. Only one person in 829 is assessed as against one in 399 in Dinajpur and to each rupee of tax there are 41 persons in Noakhali as against 21 in the other district. It is not known that Noakhali was the victim of any great calamity during the year, and there is no apparent justification for the poor results obtained by the Income-tax Department in that district. An explanation will be called for from the Collector. In the 24 Parganas the decrease arose from the destruction of crops and damage done to property by the floods of September last.

7. On the basis of the average final demand for the preceding five years, viz., from 1894-95 to 1898-99, the districts of Burdwan and Murshidabad, owing to the average final demand exceeding Rs. 60,000, moved up from class II to class I during the year. The total demand for the year shows an increase of Rs. 81,741 over that for 1899-1900. There was a gross increase of Rs. 97,837 and a gross decrease of Rs. 16,096. The demand increased by over 10 per cent. in the Sonthal Parganas (20·9), Manbhum (20·8) Chittagong (12), and Hazaribagh (11·6 . The increase was ascribed mainly to discovery of new assessees and careful revision of old assessments. In Manbhum the increasing activity in the coal industry afforded a special reason. There has been a steady increase of revenue in this district since 1898-99, and in Chittagong since the cyclone of 1897, which caused a heavy falling off in the Income-Tax revenue of that district. The demand decreased by over 10 per cent. in Cuttack (18·4). The decrease is attributed to the departure of railway contractors after the completion of work on the Calcutta-Madras Railway.

8. The percentage of collections on the final demand on account of tax for the year was 96·8, as compared with 97·4 in the previous year. The districts of Burdwan, Bankura, Murshidabad, Dacca, Tippera, Noakhali, Darbhanga, and Malda succeeded in collecting the entire demand within the year. The prescribed standard of 95 per cent. was arrived at in all the other districts except Bogra, where the percentage was 94·3. This low percentage is due to the institution of a large number of objection cases in the last quarter of the year. Some of these cases were disposed of in March, so that the 30 days' time allowed for payment of tax after the disposal of objections did not expire till after the close of the year.

By order of the Board of Revenue, L.P.,

C. J. STEVENSON-MOORE,

Offg. Secretary.

The 26th August 1901.—The following Resolution by the Board of Revenue, regarding the Administration of the Stamp Department in Bengal in the year 1900-1901, and an abstract of the Receipts and Charges for the year are published for general information.

H. M. KISCH,
Offg. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

RESOLUTION.

STAMPS.

THE HON'BLE MR. BOURDILLON, C.S.I.

Dated Calcutta, the 16th August 1901.

THE annual statistics of the Stamp Department for the year 1900-1901 are submitted to Government in accordance with the instructions contained in the Resolution of the Government of India No. 2316S.R., dated the 8th May 1901, a copy of which formed an enclosure to the Government order No. 398T.—F., dated the 5th June 1901. The statistics are furnished in the form prescribed, but to admit of this being done, further references to local officers were required. Consequently, it has been found impossible to comply with the instructions contained in paragraph 2 of the Government orders above mentioned, fixing the 10th July as the date by which the statistics should be submitted.

2. The figures for general receipts and charges for the year 1900-1901 furnished in statement I, though obtained from the Accountant-General, have not, like those of 1899 1900, been finally verified, and are therefore liable to subsequent adjustment.

3. The revenue collected under both the Stamp and Court-fees Acts amounted to Rs. 1,84,34,252 against Rs. 1,82,78,888 in the previous year, giving an increase of Rs. 1,55,364. The revised budget estimate for the year was fixed by Government at Rs. 1,85,00,000, actuals therefore fell short of it by Rs. 65,748. The increase of revenue which was obtained occurred entirely in non-judicial stamps. Whereas receipts increased by ·8 per cent. only, total charges increased by nearly 14 per cent. The explanation is the increased expenditure during the year on account of discount paid to vendors on the sales of stamps.

4. Statements II, and III which show the receipts from the sale of different kinds of stamps under the heads judicial and non-judicial in the several districts, have been compiled mainly from figures furnished by the Superintendent of Stamps, Calcutta. It will be noticed that there is a discrepancy of Rs. 709 between the figures of total receipts in these statements and those furnished in statement I. It cannot be reconciled until finally verified statements are received from the Accountant-General.

5. The sale-proceeds of court-fee stamps (excluding stamps for copies) fell from Rs. 1,25,11,390 in 1899-1900 to Rs. 1,23,44,310 in 1900-1901, that is, by over 1 per cent. The decrease is attributed partly to a smaller number of applications for probate and letters of administration being made in the High Court, and partly to a reduction in the number of suits instituted in the Small Cause Court, for which, in its turn the recrudescence of plague is believed to be responsible. There has been an increase, on the other hand, in the receipts from the sale of stamps for copies, and of plain paper.

6. Non-judicial stamps give an increase of revenue amounting to Rs. 3,28,785, or 6·9 per cent. The increase was shared by all classes of stamps, except impressed labels. The revenue derived from the sale of impressed sheets, the most important denomination, amounted to Rs. 36,03,405 against Rs. 32,55,516 in the preceding year. The increase is largely attributed to the enhanced stamp duty chargeable on perpetual leases under the new Stamp Act. The revenue derived from the sale of hundi or bill-of-exchange stamps, amounted to Rs. 1,20,133 against Rs. 1,02,632 in 1899-1900. The largest increase (Rs.15,545) occurred in Calcutta, and is attributed by the Collector of Calcutta to the institution of a number of criminal prosecutions in respect of unstamped hundis. The decrease in the sale of impressed labels, which are used only in Calcutta, is attributed to a reaction from the exceptionally large increase of the previous year, when, owing to the bad condition of the tea-industry there was an abnormal number of transfers and mortgages of tea-estates. There was an increase in the revenue received from the sales of receipt or one-anna revenue stamps in most of the districts. The increase was largest in Calcutta, and is ascribed partly to the stringent action taken by the Calcutta office under section 62 of Act II of 1899 on unstamped receipts, and partly to greater activity in the share market. The increase in other districts is mainly attributed to the use under the new Stamp Act of these stamps on all cheques issued by local bodies and others, irrespective of amount. The improvement in the sales of foreign bill stamps, transactions in which are confined chiefly to Calcutta, is the result of increased dealings in India in bills-of-exchange drawn on other countries. The receipts on account of one-anna impressed stamps amounted to Rs. 83,045 against Rs. 77,339; the reason of the increase is that these stamps have found favour with native traders and merchants, as they cannot be abstracted by dishonest servants.

7. Statement IV shows the arrangements made for the vend of stamps. The total number of vendors employed in the sale of judicial and non-judicial stamps during the year was 6,658, or an increase as compared with the previous year of 433 persons.

8. Discount to vendors is a fluctuating item, moving automatically with the rise and fall in the sales of stamps. The expenditure during the year exceeded that of the preceding year by Rs. 55,088. There was a decrease of Rs. 30,966 in respect of judicial stamps, and an increase of Rs. 2,268 and Rs. 83,786 respectively in respect of plain paper and non-judicial stamps. The decrease in respect of judicial stamps and the increase in respect of non-judicial stamps may be attributed partly to the smaller and larger sales of these stamps respectively and partly to the revised rates of discount sanctioned with effect from the 1st April 1900.

9. Statement V furnishes the number of cases in which deficient duty and penalty were levied during the year by Civil Courts under section 34 and by Collectors under sections 32, 41, and 42 of Act II of 1899. The increase in the number of cases was insignificant, but there was an advance of Rs. 602 in duty and penalty realised by Civil Courts. There was an increase of 215 in cases decided and of Rs. 142 in duty and penalty realised by Revenue officers.

10. Statement VI shows the results of the prosecutions instituted for infringement of the provisions of the Stamp Act during the year. The number of cases instituted was 513, in which 511 persons were brought to trial, against 660 cases and 691 persons in the preceding year. The fines imposed amounted to Rs. 5,253-8, against Rs. 5,939 in 1899-1900, while the amount distributed as rewards was Rs. 4,282 as against Rs. 3,684-8.

11. Statement VII, which should show the result of action taken by Collectors during the year to test the valuation of estates in respect of which probate and letters of administration had been applied for, will be submitted hereafter. The statement has been converted from a triennial into an annual one; and in order to submit it in the prescribed form, many references to local officers were required, some of which have not yet been fully answered.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of this Resolution and of the statements be submitted to the Government of Bengal, Financial Department, for information.

By order of the Board of Revenue, L.P.,

C. J. STEVENSON-MOORE,

Offg. Secretary.

RESOLUTION ON THE ADMINISTRATION REPORT OF THE ORISSA PORTS FOR 1900-1901.

No. 1592Marine.

Government of Bengal.

MARINE DEPARTMENT.

MARINE.

Dated Calcutta, the 24th August 1901.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

Letter No. 1036C., dated 24th July 1901, from the Commissioner, Orissa Division, submitting the Report on the Administration of the Orissa Ports for 1900-1901.

THE receipts, including the contributions from Government during the year under review, amounted to Rs. 18,769 against Rs. 16,518, the receipts of the previous year.

2. The expenditure amounted to Rs. 18,727, against Rs. 23,286, showing a reduction of Rs. 4,559. The decrease is due mainly to the abolition of the establishment for Shortt's Island Light-House.

A revised scale of establishment for the economical management of the ports has been sanctioned. It will effect a material and permanent saving in expenditure, but whether this will restore the Port Funds, which have been in a chronic state of deficit, to a solvent condition, remains to be seen.

3. A considerable proportion of the trade of the port was diverted to the railway, and declined in value from Rs. 1,20,75,138 in 1899-1900 to Rs. 87,98,466 during 1900-1901.

4. One hundred and ninety-three ships, with a tonnage of 106,613 tons, visited the ports, while three hundred and eleven ships, with a tonnage of 128,082 tons, entered the ports during 1899-1900. The decrease is due to the competition of the railway.

5. The passenger traffic shows a slight falling off. The better advantages, offered by the railway, is diverting the pilgrim traffic; but a considerable body of residents of places near Chandballi find the sea route more convenient.

6. Owing to the erosion of Shortt's Island, the Light-House has been closed, and the establishment discharged. It has been decided to replace the costly light by a fifth order dioptric light, which has been indented for, from England; meanwhile, a sixth order light is being exhibited on the island.

7. All passengers coming by steamers to Chandballi are examined by the Health Officer. Two cases of plague were landed and taken to the Pilgrim Hospital, and both proved fatal. The health at the Port of Balasore was, on the whole, good. Towards the end of the year the ship Glendoon arrived from Calcutta with four cases of small-pox on board. The seamen were removed to hospital where two of them died.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

R. B. BUCKLEY,

Secretary.

The mean pressure, temperature, etc., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from eye observations.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

MARINE DEPARTMENT.

Dated Calcutta, the 28th August 1901.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

Letter No. 2897, dated 24th July 1901, from the Port Officer, Calcutta, submitting the Annual Report of his Department for 1900-1901.

The year opened with 51 Pilots on the list, but at the close of the year the number stood at 46, or 4 below the sanctioned number of 50. This was due to three Pilots having retired and to the services of two having been dispensed with. It was not possible to fill their places by promotions from the Leadsmen, as none of the latter were qualified. It has been found that the sanctioned strength of 50 Pilots is not sufficient, and proposals were submitted to the Government of India to increase the number to 52. This was sanctioned after the close of the year.

2. The number of vessels arriving at and leaving the Port was 1,412 and 1,403, respectively, showing an increase of 411 in the total. This is mainly due to the transports for South Africa and China. The tonnage of the vessels using the Port is the largest on record. The average tonnage of steamers and sailing ships inwards and outwards, is 3,247 against 3,099 during the previous year.

3. In consequence of the increase in tonnage, the pilotage receipts amounted to Rs. 10,33,642 against Rs. 9,94,316 during the previous year, or an increase of nearly 20 per cent.

4. Although the number of vessels visiting the Port increased so largely, the year was one of singularly few collisions, there was, indeed, only one. This occurred between a sea-going vessel in pilotage charge and an inland flat, and was caused by a strong eddy. There were 25 groundings during the year, in 9 of which the Pilots were held to blame. The number of accidents is decidedly below the average.

5. Five vessels were neaped for want of sufficient depth of water over the bars against 7 during the previous year. The average detention was 3·2 days. From a further report from the Port Officer, it appears that 41 vessels were detained for want of Pilots, against 21 in 1899-1900. This large increase was partly due to the unusual shortness of Pilots.

6. Thirty-six preliminary enquiries into shipping casualties were held by the Port Officer, of which 5 were referred to special Marine Courts. In 17 cases the Pilots were not to blame; in 10 cases the Pilots were held to blame and suitably punished by Government, and in the remaining 9 cases, no Pilots were in charge.

7. One hundred and twenty-seven candidates appeared for Colonial and Home Trade certificates of competency, of whom 81 passed. Three hundred and sixteen candidates also appeared for certificates of competency as Masters, Serangs, Engineers and Engine-drivers under Act VI of 1884. Of these 98 passed.

8. The work of the Engineers and Shipwright-Surveyors' Department was conducted by Mr. E. G. Venn, assisted by Mr. T. W. Fish, for three months, and by Mr. F. Olford for the remainder of the year, and the gross receipts from fees amounted to Rs. 37,177. The expenditure, including the travelling allowance of surveyors to out stations, amounted to Rs. 25,513.

9. The work of the Port Officer's Department was conducted by Commander E. J. Beaumont throughout the year, except for 33 days, when he was on privilege leave during which period his duties were performed by Lieutenant Huddleston, the Assistant Port Officer and Deputy Shipping Master.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

R. B. BUCKLEY,

Secretary.

REPORT ON THE STATE OF THE SALT MARKET FOR THE FIRST QUARTER OF 1901-1902.

No. 930B, dated Calcutta, the 26th August 1901.

From—C. J. STEVENSON-MOORE, Esq., Offg. Secy. to the Board of Revenue, L. P.,
To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Financial Department.

THE HON'BLE MR BOUSDILLON, C.S.I.

I AM directed to submit the following report on the state of the salt market for the first quarter of 1901-1902, comprising the months of April, May and June 1901.

2. The quantity of salt of every description cleared during the quarter amounted to 28,02,529 maunds, as compared with 25,82,429 maunds in the previous quarter and 29,27,325 maunds in the corresponding quarter of the previous year; and the net amount of duty levied thereon was Rs. 65,33,524 as against Rs. 64,23,547 in the previous quarter and Rs. 68,49,893 in the corresponding quarter of the previous year.

3. The quantity of locally-made salt removed from the golas in Orissa during the quarter and the quantity which remained in store at its close are shown in table (I) below:—

Wastage written off	3,530
Total ...	43,298

The total sales of locally-made salt during the quarter amounted to 39,768 maunds, as compared with 31,658 maunds in the previous quarter, and 18,176 maunds in the corresponding quarter of the previous year. Duty was paid on the full quantity sold. Steady increase in the sales of this salt is due to the reduction of its price referred to in the two previous quarters' reports.

4. The subjoined table (II) shows in detail the importations into the port of Calcutta and the total clearances of sea-imported salt during the quarter, as compared with the figures of the corresponding quarters of the two previous years:—

Compared with the corresponding quarter of the past year there has been an increase in the total quantity of salt imported, but a decrease in the total quantity cleared. The importation and clearance of Aden salt are increasing. The importation of Salif salt also shows an increase, but the clearance is almost the same as in the past year.

RESOLUTION ON THE STATISTICAL RETURNS OF VACCINATION IN BENGAL FOR THE YEAR 1900-1901

MUNICIPAL DEPARTMENT—SANITATION.

Calcutta, the 2nd September 1901.

RESOLUTION—No. 27138.

READ—

The statistical statements and notes on Vaccination for the year 1900-1901, submitted by the Sanitary Commissioner.

Read also—

The statements and notes for 1899-1900, with the Government Resolution recorded upon them.

THE Sanitary Commissioner's notes now form a brief review of the statistics of the year, so that it is unnecessary in this Resolution to separately summarise the figures.

2. The most noticeable feature in the year's record is the high death-rate from small-pox. The death-rate for the whole province was 3·4 per 10,000—a far higher rate than in any of the previous ten years, and about twice the rate in five years of the decade. The rate was highest in the Cuttack district (36 per 10,000), Calcutta (33 per 10,000), Puri and Palamau (each 18 per 10,000), Balasore (9 per 10,000), and Midnapore (8 per 10,000). In only one of these districts, Balasore, have more than 18 per cent. of the population been protected in the past seven years, and in the three districts of Orissa and in Palamau there was a falling-off last year in the number of operations, notwithstanding the prevalence of small-pox.

3. The Lieutenant-Governor's attention has been recently drawn to the insufficient protection afforded by the arrangements in Calcutta. This was very clearly shown by the large proportion of unvaccinated patients treated in the Campbell Hospital. There are undoubtedly great difficulties in dealing with the immigrant labouring population; but the Lieutenant-Governor is not satisfied that the revised arrangements, which have been proposed by the Commissioners, will meet the requirements of the case. This matter is, however, being separately dealt with.

4. It is satisfactory to find that there has been real progress in municipalities in the interior where vaccination is compulsory. As regards the province generally, there is, however, much room for improvement. This is evident from the diagram in paragraph 13 of the Sanitary Commissioner's notes as well as from the statistical returns. The Sanitary Commissioner can himself do a great deal by calling attention, as he proposes to do, to results which seem to him to be unsatisfactory; but the matter really depends upon the efforts of the local officers. If the Magistrate and Civil Surgeon of each district would together examine the figures of their district as they appear in the Sanitary Commissioner's returns, and contrast them with the figures of other districts, they would see at once in what respects the results are unsatisfactory, and would be able, with their local knowledge, to make and suggest improvements with the greatest likelihood of success and with the least likelihood of delay in their execution. This may be illustrated by an examination of a few of the figures of the Shahabad district—a district in which only one person in ten has been protected in the last seven years. Statement No. I shows that on the average each vaccinator performed only 312 operations in the year, that only 20,800 children under six years of age were vaccinated out of a population of nearly two millions, that there were only three cases of re-vaccination, and that altogether only 11·78 per thousand of the population were successfully vaccinated. These figures are not worse than the corresponding figures of the previous year, and they are, therefore, not noticed in the Sanitary Commissioner's lists of retrogressions; but they stand out as extraordinarily low in contrast with the average provincial figures, and in most cases also in contrast with the figures of other districts in the same division. Much the same may be said of the Puri district. Only 17 per cent. of the population have been protected in the last seven years. Statement No. I shows that on the average each paid vaccinator performed 1,253 operations, but each licensed vaccinator only 116 operations, that only 11,450 children under six years of age were vaccinated out of a population of nearly a million, that there were only 21 cases of re-vaccination, and that altogether only 15·04 per thousand of the population were successfully vaccinated. The figures of the Patna district are even more unsatisfactory, and there is hardly a single district of which the returns do not require some explanation. In previous reviews of the vaccination report, the Lieutenant-Governor has noticed the extraordinary discrepancies between the returns of different districts, especially in the matter of infant protection, and he has more than once asked the co-operation of the Sanitary Commissioner and District Officers with a view to obtain better and clearer results. Similar discrepancies are, however, still noticeable, and the Lieutenant-Governor must, therefore, insist upon District Magistrates and Civil Surgeons now in each district undertaking an examination of the lines of figures relating to their own jurisdictions in the manner indicated above. To these officers every figure in the returns should have a real meaning, and they should not let the matter drop until they have ascertained its meaning; and the result of their examination should be reported to the Sanitary Commissioner, who will then be in the position to advise Government as to the necessity of any alteration in the system generally or in particular districts, and also as to the desirability of any change in the forms of returns by which the work is judged. The whole question of the relative advantages and disadvantages of paid and licensed vaccinators is now under the consideration of this Government and the Sanitary Commissioner on a reference from the Government of India.

5. In view of the orders in the preceding paragraph, the Lieutenant-Governor abstains this year from further comment on the figures in the statistical statements and notes, although in some cases they are clearly incorrect, and for the same reason he has not thought it necessary to have the percentages calculated again on the populations according to the recent census. In the figures of vaccinated children given above, all under six years have been shown in order to avoid any material error from an erroneous classification of children below one year and above one year.

6. Owing to the difficulty experienced by licensed vaccinators in recovering their fees, a printed form of receipt was introduced last year experimentally in certain districts. The Sanitary Commissioner has recently reported that the experiment has been a success, and the form will now be introduced generally. The difficulty mentioned in paragraph 15 of the Sanitary Commissioner's notes in connection with the increasing demand for lymph will, it is hoped, be met by the principal depôt being relieved of the work of supplying vaccinated calves and lymph to the Calcutta Municipality, the work being undertaken by the Health Officer to the Corporation.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

H. M. KISCH,

Offg. Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

SHORT NOTES ON VACCINATION

FOR THE YEAR

1900-1901.

THE following are brief notes on vaccination in Bengal for the year 1900-1901, prepared in accordance with the recent orders of the Government of India regarding the curtailment of annual reports and returns.

Officer in charge of the Department.

2. I was in charge of the Department throughout the year, and had under me the following Deputy Sanitary Commissioners:—

In the Metropolitan Circle—Captain L. Rogers, I.M.S., from 1st to 3rd April 1900, and again from 20th September 1900 to 31st March 1901; Captain T. O. Langston, I.M.S., from 4th April to 11th May 1900, and Captain Green, I.M.S., from 12th May to 16th August 1900.

In the Northern Bengal Circle—Captain W. D. Hayward, I.M.S., from 1st April to 12th August 1900.

In the Western Bengal Circle—Assistant Surgeon Gopal Chandra Mukerjea, throughout the year.

There was no Deputy Sanitary Commissioner in the Metropolitan Circle from 17th August to 19th September 1900, and in the Northern Bengal Circle from 13th August 1900 to the end of the year. I was in charge of the current work of those offices during those periods in addition to my own work.

Strength of staff.

3. In Calcutta the staff was the same as in the previous year, viz., 6 inspecting officers and 27 vaccinators. In Provincial rural areas, the inspecting staff was 247, against 246 of the preceding year. The increase of one officer is due to the appointment of an additional Head Vaccinator in the Tributary States of Orissa. The number of paid vaccinators was 73, against 120 of 1899-1900. The decrease was due to the appointment of a smaller number of vaccinators by the District Board of Puri. Among licensed vaccinators and apprentices, numbering 2,214, plus 1,182, or 3,396 in all, there was a decrease of 44 operators as compared with the previous year. This is due to ordinary fluctuations. In mufassal municipalities, dispensaries, etc., the inspecting staff and operators numbered 10 and 240, against 10 and 245, respectively, in the previous year.

Number of operations performed and average per man.

4. The total number of operations performed in Bengal during the year under report was 2,346,311, against 2,252,521 of the preceding year, or an increase of 93,790 operations during the year under report. This increase was contributed by Provincial rural areas (45,118), Calcutta (16,970), and mufassal municipalities and dispensaries, etc. (31,702). Out of the 49 districts of Bengal, including the Tributary States of Orissa and Chota Nagpur, there was an increase of operations in 31 districts, and a decrease in 18. The total operations performed in Provincial rural areas, Calcutta, and mufassal municipalities and dispensaries, etc., were 2,158,565, 43,326, and 144,420, respectively, against 2,113,447, 26,356, and 112,718 in the previous year. The increase is most striking in the districts of Mymensingh (16,492), the Tributary States of Orissa (11,057), Chittagong (10,958), Pabna (10,043), Noakhali (9,656), Backergunge (9,464), Jessore (9,195), Darbhanga (8,237), Monghyr (7,564), Rajshahi (6,999), Faridpur (5,389), Bogra (5,024), Muzaffarpur (4,745), Burdwan (4,188), Darjeeling (4,056), and Shahabad (4,007). The decrease is specially noticeable in the districts of Balasore, Sonthal Parganas, Bankura, Saran, Bhagalpur, Gaya, Rangpur, Cuttack, Patna, Puri, and the Political States of Chota Nagpur, where there was a falling off of 13,254, 12,295, 12,232, 11,267, 9,147, 8,879, 8,520, 8,418, 8,099, 8,026, and 5,228 operations, respectively.

In the districts of Patna, Gaya, and Saran the decrease is attributed by the Civil Surgeons to the prevalence of plague, while in the other districts named, except Puri, it is said to be due either to the unusual floods of September 1900 or to the prevalence of malarial fever and cholera. In Puri it is attributed to the employment of a much smaller number of vaccinators by the District Board, which cannot afford to provide more free vaccination than they do, and to the very great difficulty experienced in getting licensed vaccinators owing to the extreme difficulty in realizing fees.

The average number of operations per man in rural areas was 944, against 593 of the previous year. The increase is due to the exclusion, in accordance with Bengal Government orders Nos. 1315S. and 1665S., dated, respectively, the 29th March and 19th April 1901, of apprentices in calculating the average. In Calcutta and mufassal municipalities, dispensaries, etc., the average was 1,494 and 602, against 850 and 460, respectively, of 1899-1900. This increase of work is satisfactory.

Primary vaccination.

5. The total number of primary vaccinations performed in Bengal during 1900-1901 was 2,227,942, against 2,203,984 of 1899-1900. Out of this number, 2,116,342 were done in rural areas, 16,783 in Calcutta, including the operations done in the Animal Vaccination Depôt, and 94,817 in mufassal municipalities and dispensaries, against 2,100,121, 15,214, and 88,649, respectively, of 1899-1900. There was thus a slight improvement in all the areas concerned. The ratio per cent. of success was 97·75, against 97·67 of the preceding year. In the three areas named, the rate of success was 97·87, 95·07, and 95·58, respectively.

Protection afforded to infants.

6. During the year under review, out of 3,117,036, the estimated number of infants under one year available for vaccination, 589,376 were successfully vaccinated. The proportion of infants successfully vaccinated per thousand of the surviving infant population available for vaccination during the year was 189·08, against 201·25 in 1899-1900 and 156·85 in 1898-99. The greatest protection was afforded in the districts of Darjeeling (704), Malda (550), Ranchi (543), Khulna (449), and Bhagalpur (444) per mille of infant population. The districts of Howrah, Balasore, the Tributary States of Orissa, Hooghly, Bogra, Faridpur, Birbhum, Patna, Muzaffarpur, Cuttack, Shahabad, and Puri show the least amount of protection, the number of infants successfully vaccinated in these districts having been below 100 per mille of the population.

The protection afforded to infants in municipalities is shown in Statement No. VII, appended to the report. It will be seen that in most municipalities there was a marked improvement as compared with the previous year. Last year, I impressed upon Civil Surgeons the necessity of protecting the infant population in municipal areas, where the Compulsory Vaccination Act was in force, and the result shows that greater attention has been paid to this important matter. The attention of the Civil Surgeons of the districts where the result is still unsatisfactory will again be invited to the deficiency.

7. Revaccination.—There were 118,369 revaccinations with 70,098 successful cases, against 48,537 with 24,071 successful cases in 1899-1900. In rural areas there was an increase of 21,890 successful cases, and in Calcutta and mufassal municipalities and dispensaries, etc., the increase was 9,027 and 15,110, respectively. The ratio per cent. of successful cases was 59·22, against 49·59 of the previous year. The high percentage of success is due chiefly to the large number of revaccinations among adults who had been vaccinated in their childhood, and in whose case the prophylactic power of the vaccine virus had been destroyed.

8. Recess work.—During the recess, or non-working season, of 1900-1901, 113,392 operations were performed, chiefly in connection with small-pox epidemics and the up-keep of lymph for emergencies, against 94,832 in 1899-1900. There was an increase of 18,560 cases.

9. Six-puncture Vaccination.—Five hundred and fifty-two thousand eight hundred and sixty-seven successful primary operations were performed in six points, against 481,579 and 522,948 of 1899-1900 and 1898-99, respectively. In revaccination also the successful operations rose from 5,813 and 7,424 during 1899-1900 and 1898-99, respectively, to 9,177 in 1900-1901. This increase is satisfactory.

10. Factory and Tea-garden Vaccination.—In factories and tea-gardens with a population of 161,076, the operations performed were 7,557. Of this number, 6,333 were primary vaccinations and 1,225 revaccinations. In primary cases, the percentage of success was 94·82 and in revaccinations, 42·69. Besides this number, 786 operations, with 95·54 per cent. of success, were performed in certain other factories and tea-gardens, of which the population is not stated. The Civil Surgeons report that almost all the factory and tea-garden employés have been protected.

Comparison of the work done by Licensed, District Board, Government, and Municipal agencies.

11. Licensed Agency.—There was an increase of 37,550 operations. The average per man was 937, against 592 of the previous year. The reason of increase has been explained in paragraph 4.

District Board Agency.—The number of operators was 37, against 87 of 1899-1900. The decrease, as already explained in paragraph 3, is chiefly due to the entertainment by the District Board of Puri of a much smaller number of men, viz., 10, against 58 of the previous year. But it is satisfactory to notice that, notwithstanding the smaller number of men employed, the operations have increased by 2,083. The average has consequently risen from 472 to 1,166. This is still much below what it should be.

Government Agency.—The number of vaccinators employed was the same as in the previous year, viz., 38, but there was an increase of 7,394 operations. The average also rose from 1,021 to 1,216.

Municipal Agency.—There was a decrease of 5 vaccinators, viz., 267, against 272, but the operations increased by 46,763, raising the average from 436 to 681.

Cost of, and contribution towards, vaccination.

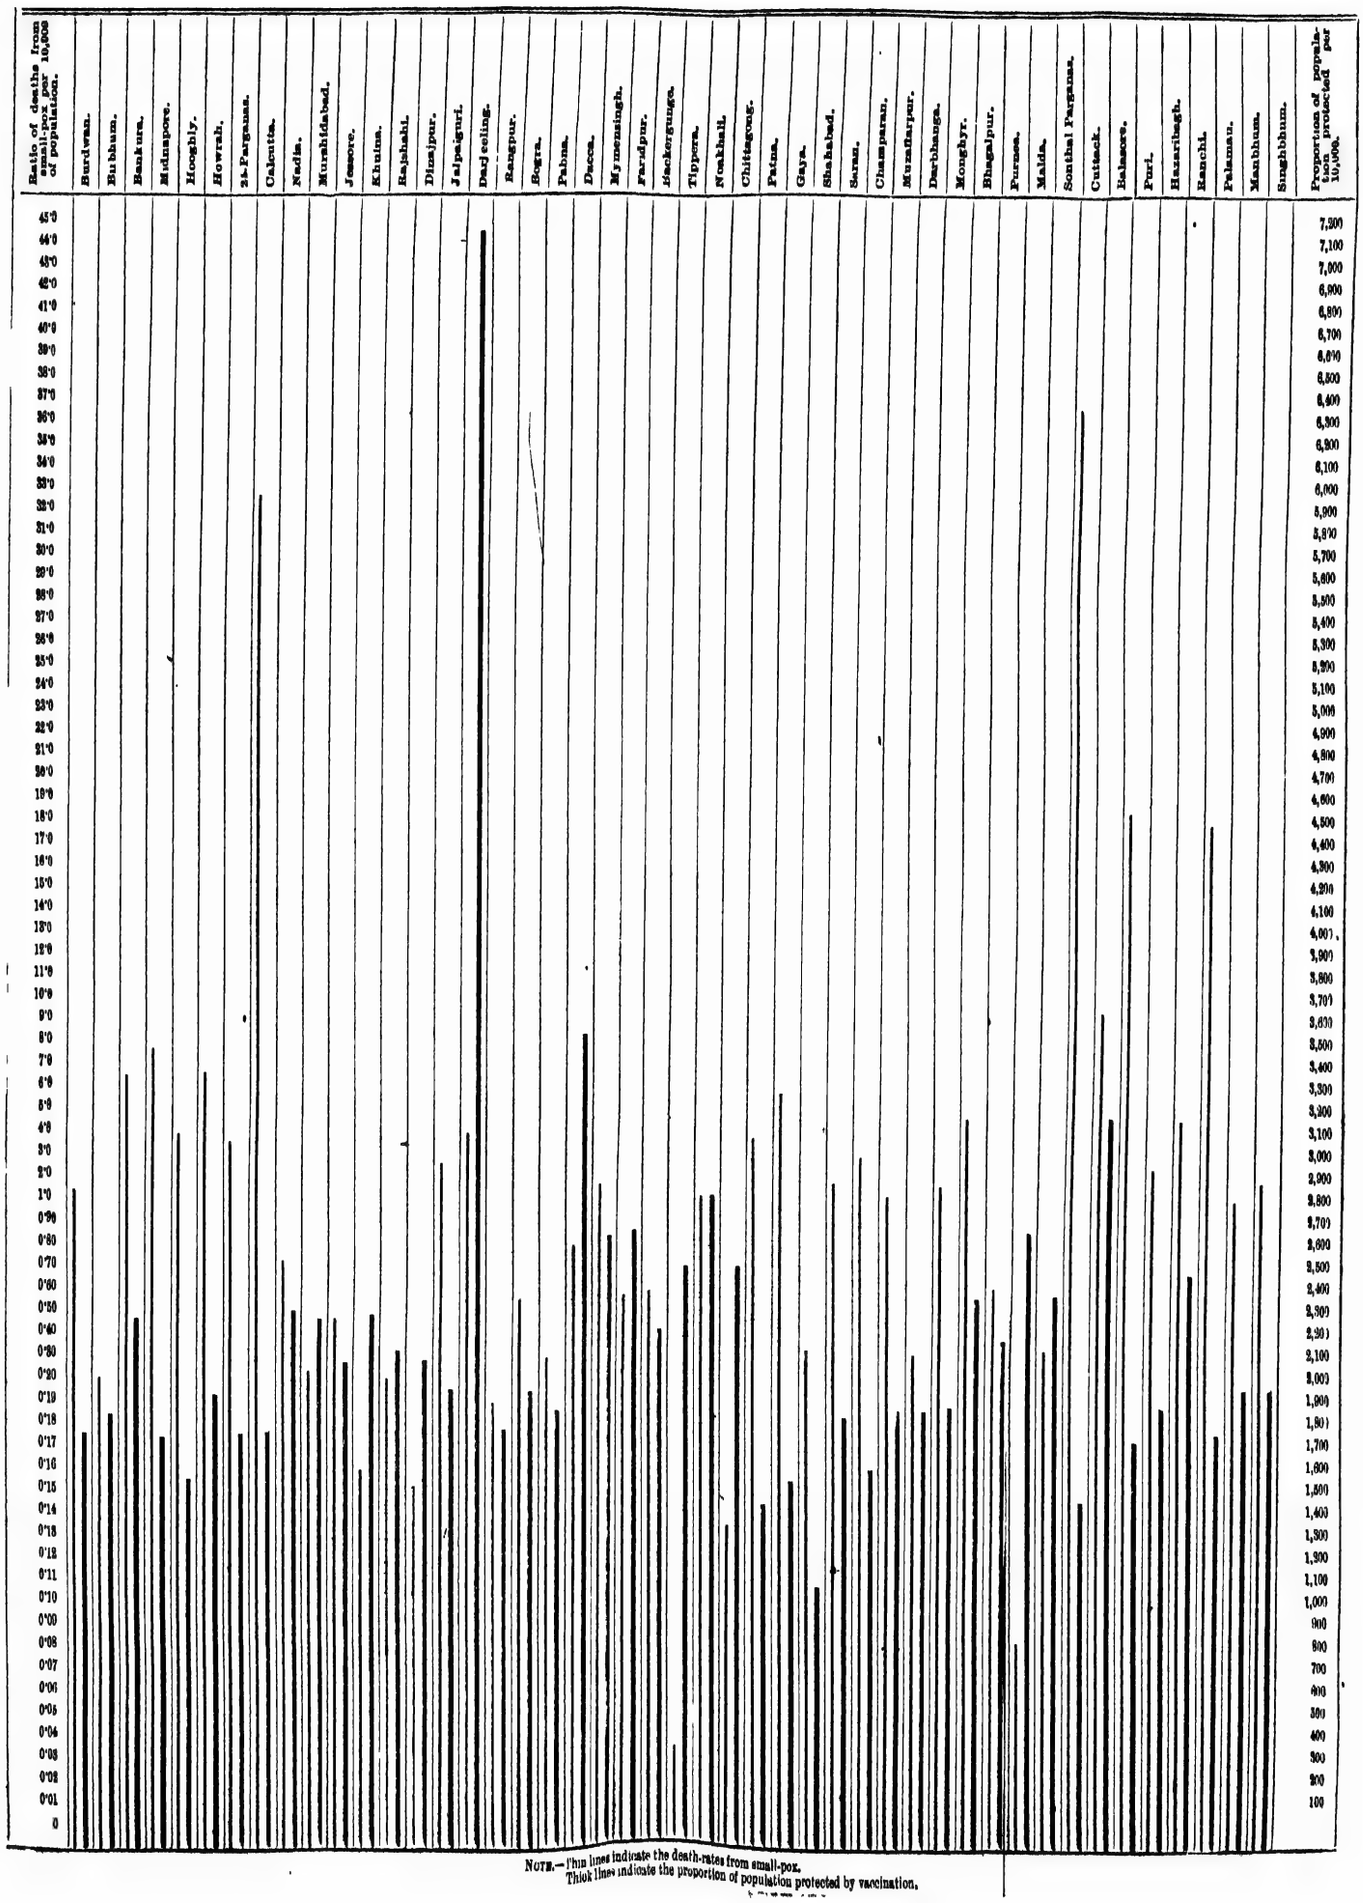
12. The total cost of vaccination was Rs. 1,88,115, against Rs. 1,84,414 of the previous year, but the cost of each successful case was the same, viz., 1 anna 4 pie.

Out of the total cost of vaccination, as shown above, Rs. 4,200 were contributed by District Boards, Rs. 2,310 by Native States, and Rs. 246 from other sources, against Rs. 3,764, Rs. 2,044, and Rs. 386, respectively, of 1899-1900.

Diagram illustrating death-rate from small-pox, and degree of protection afforded.

13. The following diagram illustrates the death-rates from small-pox in each district with side by side the proportion of population protected against the disease by vaccination during the past seven years:—

1894—1901.



NOTE.—Thin lines indicate the death-rates from small-pox.
Thick lines indicate the proportion of population protected by vaccination.

Deaths from small-pox.

14. The total number of deaths from small-pox during the year was 25,302, against 14,514 of the preceding year. The largest number of deaths was recorded in the districts of Cuttack (7,081), Calcutta (2,240), Midnapore (2,071), Puri (1,746), Gaya 1,181), and Palamau (1,080), whereas in the districts of Tippera, Malda, Birbhum, Chittagong, Khulna, Dinajpur, and Murshidabad the mortality was lowest, viz., 6, 7, 17, 18, 20, 23, and 28, respectively.

In Calcutta 476 cases of small-pox were admitted into the Campbell Hospital, of which 124 were vaccinated, 4 inoculated, and 348 unprotected. The ratio per cent. of deaths among each class of admissions was 9·67, 25, and 58·62, respectively.

Animal Vaccination Depôts.

15. In the Animal Vaccination Depôts in Calcutta and Darjeeling 452 and 169 calves were vaccinated, against 411 and 173, respectively, of the previous year. The amount of lanoline paste, in grains, manufactured was 65,832 and 50,329, respectively, against 58,800 and 49,538 of 1899-1900.

The quantity of lymph which the two animal vaccination depôts are capable of supplying is quite insufficient to meet the increased needs of the Province. In many districts the arm-to-arm method of vaccination is being gradually superseded by vaccination direct from the calf or from lanoline lymph manufactured in the Calcutta and Darjeeling Depôts. The result is a growing demand for lymph, which the depôts cannot meet, and vaccination work consequently suffers. There should be at least two more depôts. One will shortly be established at Pusa, and, I think, there should be another in Orissa for the supply of lymph to the districts of the Orissa Division and the Political States of Orissa and Chota Nagpur, where vaccination is backward.

Different methods of vaccination.

16. During the year under review 280,502 primary vaccinations were performed with calf lymph, 220,347 with lanoline lymph, and 1,727,093 by the arm-to-arm process. The ratio per cent. of success under each of these methods of vaccination was 98·46, 94·54, and 98·04, respectively. Thirty-two thousand five hundred and fifty-six, 44,617, and 41,196 revaccinations were also performed under each of the above three processes of vaccination with a success of 61·10, 51·66, and 65·91 per cent., respectively.

Supply of lymph to the Nepal Darbar and Sikkim State.

17. Four hundred and forty grains of lymph were supplied from the Animal Vaccination Depôt, Darjeeling, to the Nepal Darbar, which is reported to have produced excellent results. Two thousand four hundred and fifty-eight grains of lymph were also supplied from the same depôt to the Sikkim State.

18. Inspections.—I inspected 1,860 vaccinations. The Deputy Sanitary Commissioner, Metropolitan and Eastern Bengal Circle, inspected 1,476 vaccinations. He could not do more, as during the vaccination season he was on special duty in the Tributary States of Orissa, in Bogra, at Puri, and at Howrah. The Deputy Sanitary Commissioner, Northern Bengal Circle, could not also, during his short tenure of office, do any vaccination inspection, as he was entirely engaged on plague duty. The Deputy Sanitary Commissioner, Western Bengal Circle, Assistant Surgeon Gopal Chandra Mukerjea, inspected 9,771 cases.

Among Civil Surgeons, 3, viz., Muzaffarpur, Bankura, and Champaran, inspected more than 10,000 operations, against 5 of last year, while 17 against 9 inspected from 5,000 to 10,000. Fourteen Civil Surgeons inspected between 2,000 to 5,000 operations, and 5 only, viz., Bogra, Chittagong Hill Tracts, Murshidabad, Cuttack, and Calcutta, inspected less than 1,000 cases.

Of the subordinate inspecting staff, 13 District Inspectors of Vaccination inspected more than 50 per cent. of the operations in their jurisdiction; 7 between 40 and 50 per cent.; 24 between 20 and 40, and 4 below 20 per cent. In 9 districts, the Sub-Inspectors of Vaccination inspected more than 80 per cent. of the operations under their charge; in 31 between 50 and 80 per cent., and in 8 districts only below 50 per cent. The attention of the Civil Surgeons of the districts in which the inspection has been insufficient will again be drawn to the matter.

19. The statements prescribed in India, Home Department, letter No. 2741, dated the 26th March 1901, are appended to these notes.

All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

In this Examination, as in the Open Competition, the merit of the Candidates examined will be estimated by marks (which will be subject to deductions in the same way as the marks assigned at the Open Competition), and the number set opposite to each subject denotes the greatest number of marks that can be obtained in respect of it. The Examination will be conducted on paper and viva voce, as may be deemed necessary. This Examination will be held at the close of the year of probation, and will be called the "Final Examination."

If any candidate is prevented by sickness or any other adequate cause from attending such examination, the Commissioners may, with the concurrence of the Secretary of State for India in Council, allow him to appear at the Final Examination to be held in the following year, or at a special examination.

10. The selected Candidates will also be tested during their probation as to their proficiency in Riding.

The examinations in Riding will be held as follows:—

(1) Shortly after the result of the Open Competitive Examination has been declared, or at such time or times as the Commissioners may appoint during the course of the probationary year.

(a) A Syllabus, defining the character of the Examination in the various subjects, may be obtained on application to the Secretary, Civil Service Commission.

(b) No deduction will be made from the marks assigned to Candidates in Mathematics or English Composition.

(c) Instructions, showing the extent of the Examination, will be issued to the successful Candidates as soon as possible after the result of the Open Competition is declared.

* The principal Vernacular Language prescribed for each Province to which Candidates are assigned, is as follows:—

For the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, the Punjab, and the Central Provinces	...	Hindustani.
For Burma	...	Burmese.
For Bombay	...	Marathi.
For Madras	...	Tamil or Telugu
For the Lower Provinces of Bengal	...	Hindustani or Bengali

(At the option of the Candidate.)

In Hindustani the Candidate will be required to be acquainted with both the Persian and the Nagari character; and in the case of the last two Provinces mentioned above, a Candidate whose Vernacular Language is either of the languages shown against his Province, must offer the other for examination.

† These subjects may not be offered by any Candidate who has offered them at the Open Competition

(2) Again, at the time of the Final Examination, Candidates who may fully satisfy the Commissioners of their ability to ride well and to perform journeys on horseback, shall receive a Certificate which shall entitle them to be credited with 200 or 100 marks according to the degree of proficiency displayed, to be added to their marks in the Final Examination.

(3) Candidates who fail to obtain this Certificate, but who gain a Certificate of minimum proficiency in Riding, will be allowed to proceed to India, but will be subjected on their arrival to such further tests in Riding as may be prescribed by their Government, and shall receive no increase to their initial salary until they have passed such tests to the satisfaction of that Government. A Candidate who fails at the end of the year of probation to gain at least the Certificate of minimum proficiency in Riding will be liable to have his name removed from the list of Selected Candidates.

11. The selected Candidates who, on examination, shall be found to have a competent knowledge of the subjects specified in Regulation 9, and who shall have satisfied the Civil Service Commissioners of their eligibility in respect of nationality, age, health, character, conduct during the period of probation, and ability to ride, shall be certified by the said Commissioners to be entitled to be appointed to the Civil Service of India, provided they shall comply with the regulations in force, at the time, for that Service.

12. Persons desirous to be admitted as Candidates must apply on Forms, which may be obtained from "The Secretary, Civil Service Commission, London, S.W.," at any time after the 1st December, in the year previous to that in which the Examination is to be held. The Forms must be returned so as to be received at the office of the Civil Service Commissioners on or before the 1st July (or, if that date should fall upon a Sunday or public holiday, then, on or before the first day thereafter on which their office is open) in the year in which the Examination is to be held.

The Civil Service Commissioners are authorized by the Secretary of State for India in Council to make the following announcements:—

(i) Selected Candidates will be allotted to the various Provinces upon a consideration of all the circumstances, including their own wishes; but the requirements of the Public Service will rank before every other consideration.

(ii) An allowance amounting to £100 will be given to all Candidates who pass their probation at one of the Universities or Colleges which have been approved by the Secretary of State, viz., the Universities of Oxford, Cambridge, Dublin, Glasgow, Edinburgh, St. Andrews and Aberdeen; Victoria University, Manchester; University College, London; and King's College, London: provided such Candidates shall have passed the Final Examination to the satisfaction of the Civil Service Commissioners, and shall, in the opinion of the Secretary of State, have conducted themselves well and complied with such rules as may be laid down for the guidance of selected Candidates. The whole probation must ordinarily be passed at the same Institution. Migration will not be permitted, except for special reasons approved by the Secretary of State.

(iii) The allowance of £100 will not be paid to any Selected Candidate until he has been certified by the Civil Service Commissioners to be entitled to be appointed to the Civil Service of India: and every Certificated Candidate must, before receiving his allowance, give a written undertaking to refund the amount in the event of his failing to proceed to India.

(iv) All Candidates obtaining Certificates will be also required to enter into covenants, by which, amongst other things, they will bind themselves to make such payments as under the rules and regulations for the time being in force they may be required to make towards their own pensions or for the pensions of their families. The stamps payable on these covenants amount to £1.

(v) The seniority in the Civil Service of India of the Selected Candidates will be determined according to the order in which they stand on the list resulting from the combined marks of the Open Competitive and Final Examinations.

(vi) Selected Candidates will be required to report their arrival in India within such period after the grant of their Certificate of Qualification as the Secretary of State may in each case direct.

(vii) Candidates rejected at the Final Examination held in any year, will in no case be allowed to present themselves for re-examination.

N.B.—A Manual of Rules and Regulations applicable to members of the Covenanted Civil Service of India has been compiled by permission of the Government of India, and may now be procured either from Messrs. A. Constable & Co., 2 Whitehall Gardens, S.W., or from Mr. E A. Arnold, 37 Bedford Street, Covent Garden. Price 2*s.* 6*d.*

The Commissioners have been requested by the Secretary of State for India to draw the attention of Selected Candidates to the prefatory note attached to this manual, as it is considered important that it should be clearly understood that this compilation is not to be regarded in any other light than that of a collection, made for facility of reference, of certain information and rules, that it is by no means exhaustive, and that it is liable to such modifications as may from time to time be sanctioned by competent authority.

CIVIL SERVICE OF INDIA;

CLERKSHIPS (CLASS I) IN THE HOME CIVIL SERVICE; AND EASTERN CADETSHIPS.

Syllabus showing the extent of the Examination in certain subjects.

English Composition.—An Essay to be written on one of several subjects specified by the Civil Service Commissioners on their Examination Paper.

English Language and Literature.—The Examination will be in two parts. In the one the Candidates will be expected to show a general acquaintance with the course of English Literature, as represented (mainly) by the following writers in verse and prose, between the reign of Edward III and the accession of Queen Victoria:

Verse—Chaucer, Langland, Spenser, Shakespeare, Milton, Dryden, Pope, Gray, Collins, Johnson, Goldsmith, Crabbe, Cowper, Campbell, Wordsworth, Scott, Byron, Coleridge, Shelley, Keats.

Prose—Bacon, Sir Thomas Browne, Milton, Cowley, Bunyan, Dryden, Swift, Defoe, Addison, Johnson, Burke, Scott, Macaulay (Essays and Biographies).

A minute knowledge of the works of these authors will not be looked for in this part of the Examination, which will, however, test how far the Candidates have studied the chief productions of the greatest English writers in themselves, and are acquainted with the leading characteristics of their thought and style, and with the place which each of them occupies in the history of English Literature. Candidates will also be expected to show that they have studied in these authors the history of the English Language in respect of its vocabulary, syntax, and prosody.

The other part of the Examination will relate to one of the periods named below, which will follow each other year by year in the order indicated:—

1.	A.D. 1700 to A.D. 1800.
(1902)	[Pope to Cowper.]
2.	A.D. 1800 to A.D. 1832.
(1903)	[Nineteenth Century writers to the death of Scott.]
3.	A.D. 1360 to A.D. 1600.
(1904)	[Chaucer to Spenser.]
4.	A.D. 1600 to A.D. 1700.
(1905)	[Shakespeare to Dryden.]

The Examination in this part will require from Candidates a more minute acquaintance with the history of the English Language and Literature, as illustrated in the chief works produced in each period, and will be based to a considerable extent, but by no means exclusively, on certain books specified each year by the Commissioners.* The names placed under the dates are intended to suggest the general character of the literary development of the period, and, consequently, the natural limits of the Examination. All the works of Shakespeare, for example, will be regarded as falling within the period 1600 to 1700; all the works of Swift within the period 1700 to 1800; all the works of Scott and Wordsworth, and all the works of Macaulay within the period 1800 to 1832.

   [A.D. 1193 to A.D. 1521.]

The results of observations at the Alipore Observatory are not rigorously comparable with the registers of past years (at the Park Street Observatory). The barometer is about 3 feet higher at Alipore, and, other things being equal, reads therefore ·003 lower. The diurnal range of temperature is also greater at Alipore, and the mean temperature apparently about 0°·6 higher; and, finally, the thermometer which furnished the record of temperature at the Surveyor-General's Office during 20 years and upwards is found to read 0·6 higher than the Kew Standard thermometer, which is the standard of reference at the present Observatory.

The mean pressure, temperature, etc., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from eye observations.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

FIRST INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION

OF MODERN DECORATIVE ART.

1902 - TURIN - 1902.

Under the patronage of H. M. the King of Italy and under the presidency of H. R. H. the Duke of Aosta will be held in this town in the year 1902 an International Exhibition of Modern Decorative Art. The necessity of reviving æsthetic taste in home-decoration and all that surrounds our life is felt by us as by all other civilized nations.

Italy, remembering to have been in past times the mistress and inspirer of other nations in the art of decoration, wishes now to take part with her new artistic powers in the great beneficent movement of modern æsthetics, and through us invites to a noble competition all those who in the field of arts and industries have sought and are still seeking to give a form to these noble ideals.

We consider that the æsthetic revival in architecture and home-decoration had its beginning in England through the inspiration of eminent artists and the work of intelligent manufacturers and there the new decorative forms reached their development and won over the public, even before the taste for them had extended to the other nations of the continent.

It is therefore our great desire that the artists and manufacturers of the United Kingdom, in bringing to us the original note of their decorative creations, may contribute largely to the solemn affirmation of the new style which we intend to promote by our Exhibition.

We trust that the English nation, so enthusiastic for the beauties of our country and so devoted to the study of our ancient art, will give to Italy on this occasion a new proof of her sympathy.

The annexed programme and the following declarations will make our intentions clear :—

As this Exhibition is not to be a reflection of other industrial exhibitions so oft repeated, neither reproductions of styles already known, nor simply industrial production wanting of an artistic stamp will be admitted.

It will only be open to original productions tending to the artistic renewal of the form.

While leaving to the exhibitors the greatest liberty in their ideas, we think it necessary to call their attention to the programme which we have the honour of addressing to them.

It is desirable that this Exhibition should have a well specified and entirely new character. It is not a question of bringing together many objects of a different character, but rather of producing the decorative whole in harmony with the essence of modern life.

It is therefore to be hoped that the artists and workmen will not seek only the magnificent elegance of the princely dwelling, but that they will find simple and modest elegance in the complete decoration of the private house.

An artistic Jury will superintend the acceptance of objects so that nothing may be admitted that could alter the nature of our Exhibition, and that the admission may in itself be a reward to the exhibitors, who will at once kindly send their adhesion to the Committee—Via Ospedale, n. 28, Turin (Italy).

This visit will be announced not less than 24 hours previously by placards posted up in the different galleries, thus rendering it unnecessary to notify the same to each individual exhibitor. The judgment of the Commission will be unappealable. The objects refused by the Commission must be immediately removed from the precincts of the Exhibition, under the care and at the expense of the exhibitor or his representative.

In default of this, the Commission will see to the forwarding of the said objects at the expense and risk of the exhibitor.

They must specify clearly whether they intend to provide only for the decoration of the room or for the furnishing of the same or whether for both.

In the event of the General Commission having already fixed the plan of the Exhibition, copies of same would be sent to such exhibitors expressing a desire to have them ; the General Commission would also consent, as far as lay in her power, to introduce those slight changes proposed, in order to better the condition of each separate department of the Exhibition.

ART. 34.—The exhibitors who intend to erect kiosks, pavilions or other special buildings for exhibiting their productions must make a special request for permission to the General Commission not later than the 31st July 1901, indicating the space required and accompanying the request with designs necessary to show the manner in which they intend to decorate them interiorly and exteriorly, the decoration having in every way to agree in artistic conception with that of the entire Exhibition.

ART. 35.—The General Commission will provide for the publication of an official catalogue of the Exhibition. Every object or group of objects must bear a ticket with the number corresponding to that of the catalogue.

In the above statement transactions on account of Government are included; but it should be noted that such transactions are excluded from all other statements and figures embodied in or annexed to this report, and are dealt with in a separate section of it (vide paragraph 59).

With the exception of a slight check in the year 1898-99, which was, however, confined to the coasting trade, the general maritime trade of Calcutta has shown a steady improvement for years, and the advance of $11\frac{1}{4}$ crores, or 12·4 per cen., in the value recorded in 1899-1900, has been followed in 1900-1901 by a further advance of $9\frac{3}{4}$ crores, or 9·5 per cent., the aggregate value, nearly 112 crores, being by far the highest on record. Under every head shown in the statement given above, except re-exports of foreign goods and of silver coastwise, a substantial advance is recorded.

2. Fluctuations in treasure are shown separately in the statement, and the result of the combined foreign and coasting transactions was a nett import of $7\frac{1}{4}$ crores, being an increase of $2\frac{3}{4}$ crores, or 60·8 per cent., over the nett importation of the preceding year. The nett importation of gold and silver from abroad amounted to 6 crores, or three-quarters of a crore more than in 1899-1900, while the transactions in treasure with other Indian ports resulted in a nett importation of $1\frac{1}{4}$ crore as against a nett export in the preceding year of three-quarters of a crore.

3. In merchandise exports exceeded imports by nearly 24 crores, and the aggregate trade in both increased by 7 crores, or 7·6 per cent. In the foreign trade in merchandise, imports advanced by 4·9 per cent., by far the heaviest increases being in metals, sugar and cotton goods, in the order named. Imports were in advance of those of the preceding year in every month except April, July and August. The increase in exports was 9 7 per cent., and by far the greatest advances were in jute manufactures, opium and tea. The increase was apparent in every month except September and January and, to a very slight degree, in February. Judging by the values recorded, the foreign export trade was most active in October, November and December 1900, and the import trade in October and December 1900 and January and March 1901. The former rose and fell month by month during the first half of the year, and after going up with a bound in October fell steadily during the remaining months. The import trade went up and down again almost every month throughout the year, but was highest of all in March. Both exports and imports were, however, considerably higher during the second half of the year than during the first. Trade generally was adversely affected by famine in the first half of the year and by plague in the last quarter, and for the last few months it has been, on the whole, much duller than usual.

4. In the coasting trade in merchandise there was an increase of 16·5 per cent. in imports and of ·8 per cent. in exports. The former occurred mainly in cotton goods, Burma kerosine oil and grain, and the latter in coal and jute manufactures. The aggregate coasting trade in merchandise advanced by 6·4 per cent.

5. In spite of the large increase in the value of the foreign trade of Calcutta, its volume as compared with the preceding year remained practically the same, as there was, on the whole, a large rise in the level of prices. This will be seen by reference to Appendix I, in which the prices of 25 representative articles, namely, 10 in imports and 15 in exports, are set forth. Prices generally rose by 10 per cent. in the case of imports and by 6·33 per cent. in that of exports. There was, at the same time, a fall of ·6 per cent. in the average rate of exchange for the year (1*s.* $3\frac{3}{32}d.$ in 1900-1901 as against 1*s.* $4\frac{1}{16}d.$ in 1899-1900). This slight difference in exchange may, however, be ignored in estimating the fluctuation in the volume of trade: in the case of imports, indeed, invoice values are now always converted at the rate of 15 rupees to the pound sterling. At the prices which prevailed in 1899-1900, the value of the foreign trade of Calcutta in merchandise in 1900-1901 would have been about 30¾ crores in the case of imports and 51 crores in that of exports; so that in comparison with 1899-1900 the volume of the trade actually fell by 4·56 per cent. in the one case but rose by 2·7 per cent. in the other, while both together remained almost exactly the same. But as compared with each of the three earlier years shown in the table, the real volume of trade, making allowance for difference in prices (but not in rate of exchange), was greater as regards both imports and exports, except that imports were very slightly less than in 1896-97: as compared with the average of these three years, imports were higher by over a quarter of a crore, or 1 per cent., and exports by 6⅓ crores, or 14·3 per cent. All the chief articles of import show an advance in price, and in exports the only exceptions were indigo, tea and, to a very slight extent, shellac. The general level of prices was higher than in any of the preceding four years: during the first three of these they had been falling steadily. The rise as compared with 1896-97 was 2·2 per cent., with 1897-98 9· per cent., with 1898-99 10·7 per cent., and with 1899-1900 8· per cent.

In imports an advance is shown in every group except V, the fall in which is due to diminished receipts of kerosine oil from the United States of America. Group I consists almost entirely of horses from Australia. The large increase in group II was chiefly due to heavy importations of sugar. In group III the advance was mainly in iron, steel, hardware and copper, a marked falling off being shown in railway material. In group IV the increase was chiefly in camphor and quinine, and in group VI in precious stones. Group VII shows only a small increase, which was distributed over many articles, but it was much the largest in the case of woollen shawls.

Exports show an advance in all groups except I and II. The falling off in group I was slight. In group II it was mainly due to there having been comparatively little exportation of wheat. The increase in group III was chiefly in re-exports of iron and copper. In group IV the advance was mainly in opium, and in group V in castor oil and mustard oil. Exports of raw jute account for most of the increase in group VI, but coal also contributed considerably to this. In group VII the great bulk of the advance was in gunny-bags and gunny-cloth.

7. Following the precedent of former years, articles of sufficient importance or interest are reviewed separately below, the principal ones being accompanied by a tabulated statement covering the last five years. They are arranged in alphabetical order under imports and exports respectively, the distinction between dutiable and free articles and between the "five principal revenue headings" and others, which found a place in previous reports, being abandoned. Details of the coasting trade in the five principal articles have also been omitted from this section of the report, which deals only with the foreign trade. General remarks regarding them will be found in the section on coasting trade. In the case of the less important articles the quinquennial statements have been omitted. Government transactions, as already remarked, are excluded throughout.

With reference to the distribution of the trade with different countries, it is important to note that the figures throughout refer only to the port of destination or exportation as shown in shipping-bills and bills-of-entry, and should not be taken as indicating the country of final destination or of production, as the case may be.

IMPORTS.

(FOREIGN TRADE.)

8. Imports represent 37 per cent. of the aggregate value of the foreign trade of Calcutta in merchandise.

The average annual value (in crores and lakhs) of imported merchandise during each quinquennial period of the last thirty years has been as follows:—

	Lakhs of rupees.
1870-71 to 1874-75	16,48
1875-76 to 1879-80	17,80
1880-81 to 1884-85	21,50
1884-85 to 1889-90	23,44
1890-91 to 1894-95	25,95
1895-96 to 1899-1900	28,46
The year 1900-1901	31,79

There has thus been a steady increase, which has become specially marked since the rate of exchange has approached stability; but if allowance be made for difference in prices, the volume of trade does not show any substantial increase during the last few years.

In Appendix II will be found the value of the trade during each of the past five years in all the articles imported to an extent worth mentioning. As usual, cotton goods represent more than half of the total import trade, namely, 50·02 per cent. of it, as against 53·03 per cent. in the preceding year. The following are the other articles, arranged in order of importance, which represented in each case more than one per cent. of the value of the import trade, the percentage being noted against each:—

Metals, 10·04 per cent.; Oils, 5·60; Sugar, 5·03; Machinery and Mill-work, 3·20; Woollen goods, 2·72; Hardware and Cutlery, 2·43; Railway materials, 1·73; Liquors, 1·54; Drugs and Narcotics (including tobacco), 1·41; Apparel, 1·40; Salt, 1·39; Spices, 1·34; Provisions, 1·11; Glass and Glassware, ·92; Tea-chests, ·71; Chemicals, ·68; Instruments and Appliances, ·66; Animals (almost entirely horses), ·65; and Paints and Colours, ·55 per cent. Among these, the articles which show a marked improvement in their position were Metals and Sugar: a substantial advance also occurred in the case of Woollen goods, Hardware and Drugs and Narcotics. Those which fell back most were Railway materials and Oils.

The articles not specified in the above list represent in the aggregate 6·87 per cent. of the import trade. Those of them which showed the most important increases were jewellery, flax manufactures and grain and pulse; while the largest falling off was in silk manufactures and wood and wood manufactures.

* * * * * * * *

EXPORTS.

(FOREIGN TRADE.)

27. Exports represent 63 per cent. of the aggregate value of the foreign trade of Calcutta in merchandise.

The steady progress of the export trade during the past thirty years is indicated by the following figures, which show its average annual value (in crores and lakhs) during each quinquennial period:—

	Lakhs of rupees.
1870-71 to 1874-75	23·59
1875-76 to 1879-80	27·78
1880-81 to 1884-85	33·08
1885-86 to 1889-90	35·23
1890-91 to 1894-95	39·97
1895-96 to 1899-1900	45·59
The year 1900-1901	54·00

As in the case of imports, the increase has been specially pronounced since the rate of exchange has approached stability, and this even when allowance is made for difference in prices during the last five years; in other words, the actual volume, as well as the value of the export trade, has advanced substantially during that period.

In Appendix III will be found the value of the trade during each of the past five years in all the articles exported to an extent worth mentioning. Re-exports of foreign merchandise occupy a very small place in the total export trade, only ·41 per cent. as against ·37 in the preceding year. The value of this trade was, however, higher during each of the last three years than during the preceding three, being highest of all (22⅓ lakhs) during the year under review.

Of articles of Indian produce, Raw Jute usually occupies the first place, though it had to give way to tea in 1898-99 and 1899-1900; and it has resumed its leading position in 1900-01, representing 19·18 per cent. of the total export trade. The raw article and its manufactures account between them for 33·55 per cent. of it, against 27·9 per cent. in the preceding year. Tea occupies second place, with a percentage of 16·73, and Jute Manufactures come next with 14·37 per cent. The following are the other articles, arranged in order of importance, which represented in each case more than one-half per cent. of the value of the export trade, the percentage being noted against each:—Opium, 11·29 per cent.; Hides and Skins, 10·25; Grain and Pulse, 7·84; Oil-seeds, 7·69; Indigo, 2·89; Lac, 1·92; Raw Cotton, 1·10; Coal, 1·09; Raw silk, ·89; Saltpetre, ·61; and Oils, ·54 per cent. The proportionate advance in Jute and Jute Manufactures was so great that the only other articles that appear to show a substantial advance were Opium and Coal. The articles which fell back most were Grain and Pulse, Hides, Tea and Oil-seeds.

The articles not specified in the above list represent in the aggregate 3·20 per cent. of the export trade. Those of them which showed the most important increases were Hemp, Metals, Fibres and Timber. By far the largest falling off in any article of export, except grain, was in Cotton Twist and Yarn, which represented only ·24 per cent. of the export trade, as compared with a little over 1 per cent. in the preceding year. Among other unspecified articles, the largest decreases occurred in Drugs, Manures and Cotton Manufactures, but in none of these cases was it very heavy.

DISTRIBUTION OF CALCUTTA TRADE WITH FOREIGN COUNTRIES.

47. Appendix IV shows how the trade of Calcutta with foreign countries was distributed among them during each of the last five years. The following table gives the figures (in lakhs of rupees) for main groups:—

The fluctuations in the trade in each of the principal articles with different foreign countries have already been noted in this report; and it is unnecessary now to do more than indicate the articles in which the fluctuations with the groups of countries noted in the above statement principally occurred. In many cases there were both increases and decreases which counterbalanced one another, but mention of these may, for the most part, be omitted.

The value of the trade of Calcutta passing through the Suez Canal was 67½ cror against 63⅓ crores in 1899-1900, but the proportion of the total trade of the port that ma use of this route fell from 74·3 to 73 per cent.

48. United Kingdom.—The proportion of Calcutta's total trade that went to the Uni Kingdom has been decreasing for years, with the exception of 1896-97, and a somewhat p nounced drop is shown during the past year, bringing it for the first time below half the tra of Calcutta. In imports into Calcutta there was a comparatively trifling decrease of lakhs. The fall was heaviest in railway material, salt, parts of ships, glassware and umbrell In exports there was an increase of nearly three quarters of a crore, chiefly attributable raw jute, jute manufactures, tea and oilseeds.

49. Continent of Europe.—In this case the proportionate trade has been increasing, there is a marked rise during the past year at the expense of the United Kingdom America. The trade with Germany increased by 1⅔ crore, with Austria by nearly hal crore, and with Italy and France by about a quarter of a crore each. Imports into Calcu show an advance of 57 lakhs, chiefly in sugar, woollen shawls, hardware and German sil Exports to the Continent also increased by nearly 2½ crores, for which raw jute hides are mainly responsible.

50. United States of America.—In this case trade fell back, imports showing a sm decline of 3 lakhs, but exports one of 44 lakhs. In the former case the decrease is far m than accounted for by a heavy drop of 9⅓ lakhs in mineral oil, and in the latter case by of 57 lakhs in hides and skins, the next largest fall being 5½ lakhs in shellac.

51. Rest of America.—Here, again, there has been a decline in Calcutta's trade. Imp were insignificant in every year except 1899-1900, when timber to the value of 2⅔ lakhs imported. Exports fell by 13 lakhs, for which jute manufactures alone would fully accou but there was besides a heavy drop in linseed, which was, however, counterbalanced nearly as large an advance in rice.

52. Mauritius, Cape Colony and Natal.—There was a heavy fall of 56 lakhs in impo but a rise of 21 in exports. The former is explained by the fact that in the preced year there was an altogether exceptional importation of over two-thirds of a cr of treasure from the Cape and Natal, whereas very little indeed was brought during 1900-01. Against this heavy drop has to be set an increase of nearly 12 la in sugar imported from Mauritius. There is hardly any import trade in merchandise from Cape and Natal, while that from Mauritius is almost all sugar. The export trade f Calcutta to both is, however, substantial; but the increase shown during the past year confined to Mauritius, and occurred mainly in treasure (13 lakhs), gunny-bags and gram.

53. Egypt.—The trade with this country is shown separately, as it is to a large ex merely a transhipment trade, at any rate as regards exports from Calcutta, which are o shipped to "Port Said for orders" to enable dealers to conceal the real destination. Imp from Egypt increased by a lakh in value, which is more than accounted for by a ris over 1¼ lakh in cane sugar of local production and of over one third of a lakh in cigars Exports, on the other hand, show a decrease of 6 lakhs, which is far more than explai by a drop of 22 lakhs in linseed; but against this have to be set increases aggrega 17 lakhs in gunny bags and indigo.

54. Rest of Africa.—The trade of Calcutta with the rest of Africa is of small dimensi and shows a falling off. The largest decrease in imports was in cloves, and in exp in rice.

55. Eastern Asia.—With other countries in Asia the trade of Calcutta shows a substan increase both in imports and exports. Imports from Eastern Asia advanced by over a cr two thirds of which consisted of treasure. The rest of the increase was mainly in sugar tin. In exports also the advance exceeded a crore, nine-tenths of this being in opium, w jute manufactures also show a substantial increase.

56. Western Asia.—Imports advanced by 5 lakhs and exports by 12. The former principally in salt, treasure (1¾ lakh) and dates; and the latter in jute manufactures and coa

57. Ceylon.—The trade with this island is shown separately, as a considerable part consists of transhipments. Imports show an advance of over half a crore and export nearly three-fifths of a crore. More than four-fifths of the former is accounted for by increase of 46 lakhs under treasure transhipped from Australia; copper, cocoanut oil, fruits spices all contributed to the balance. The heaviest increases in exports were in grain and p and coal.

58. Australasia.—In addition to substantial increases in transhipments shown u Ceylon, there was a large advance also in the direct trade between Australia and Calcu Imports show an increase of three quarters of a crore and exports of a third of a crore. in the case of Ceylon, the great bulk, namely, three-fourths, of the advance in import accounted for by an increase of 55 lakhs in treasure: the balance was chiefly contribute

8. Though it is apparent, then, that in respect both of foreign and coasting trade the contributions of the outports to the trade of Bengal are small, the Board think it desirable to place on record in an accessible form amalgamated statistics for the general trade and for the total customs revenue of the Province of Bengal taken as a whole. Those for general trade are furnished in the subjoined statement :—

9. The explanatory remarks on the figures for the port of Calcutta, which the Collector has made in the opening paragraphs of his report, can, for obvious reasons, be taken as fully applicable to the amalgamated figures for the whole Province, and similarly on descending to a consideration of individual articles of foreign trade, the Board do not find much to add to his review. The articles which exercise the widest direct influence on the material condition of the people of this country are, amongst imports, salt and sugar; and amongst exports, jute, rice, oilseeds, coal and tea. Salt forms the subject of a separate administration report from the Board. The trade statistics of sugar are of special interest, in view of the introduction two years ago of countervailing duties on beet-sugar imported from foreign countries on bounty. The Collector of Customs, who discusses the question in paragraph 23 of his report, finds it difficult to estimate the precise effect of this experiment. There has certainly been an enormous increase in the quantity of sugar imported during the past year. In the first year after countervailing duties were imposed, the importation of beet-sugar fell by 15,600 tons, but this year it has increased by 15,649 tons. No doubt, as the Collector points out, the increase was stimulated by the poor crop of sugarcane in 1899-1900, which in Bengal and the North-Western Provinces was estimated to be only 71 per cent. of the normal, against about 90 per cent. in the preceding and succeeding years, as well as by the low prices and over-production of beet sugar in continental countries. But while the import of sugar from bounty-giving countries, which is mainly beet-sugar, has increased from 9,808 to 25,457 tons, or by about 160 per cent., that from other countries, mainly sugar made from cane, has risen from 27,740 to 41,585 tons, or by 50 per cent. only. The countervailing duties have not, it is believed, led to any striking extension of the area under sugarcane in the Bengal Provinces, though it will probably do so in time. As matters stand, and making full allowance for the exceptional causes enumerated by the Collector of Customs, the Board are forced to the conclusion that bounty-fed sugar has quite succeeded in holding its own. It has been said that cane-sugar cannot compete with beet-sugar, if both are placed in the market on terms approximately equal. There may be something in this view, and the attempt to acclimatise sugar beet to India, experiments to which end are being made by the Agricultural Department of the North-Western Provinces, appears to be one deserving of special attention.

10. Amongst exports jute is the commodity which has the most far-reaching influence on the economic condition of the people of Bengal for raw jute and jute manufactures between them account for one-third of the export trade. Not only has its cultivation been largely the cause of the striking prosperity of the peasantry of Eastern Bengal, but the local mills employ a large and ever-increasing industrial population in its manufacture. It is for the latter reason too, namely, that it provides employment for a large number of people outside of agriculture that the coal industry of Bengal is of so great political and economic value. Although coal accounts for only 1 09 per cent of the total export trade, it has undergone an enormous expansion during the past year. Exports to foreign ports increased by 77 per cent. in quantity and 80 per cent. in value. The consumption of bunker coal advanced by 28 per cent. and shipments to other Indian ports by 54 per cent., nearly two-thirds of the whole going to Bombay. It is recognised that this sudden development of the coal industry was largely caused by the prohibitive price of English coal and the high rates for freight, both of which resulted mainly from several years of great trade activity throughout Europe and America, but it is generally thought that Bengal has succeeded in permanently capturing the coal trade between Suez and Singapore, and that the development should continue, though necessarily at a greatly reduced pace. Much has been said during the year of the extent to which this industry has been hampered owing to the inadequacy of the railway arrangements for conveyance of the coal. But in spite of this drawback, coal mining continues to be exceedingly remunerative, and the chief danger to which it is exposed seems to be that, attracted by such sudden and high profits, capitalists may be tempted to allow the development of the coal-fields to outrun the demand for their produce. The tea industry, in which also much labour is employed, accounts for nearly 17 per cent. of the total export trade, and the quantity exported during the past year rose by 8·5 per cent. Much of the increase, however, was of low grade tea, which could not be disposed of at remunerative rates. It has been estimated that the supply of tea during last year was 20 million lbs. in excess of the demand; and unless the demand increases, or the supply is curtailed, the industry must undergo a serious set back, the effect of which cannot fail to be felt by the labourers. During the current year unpropitiousness of season and finer plucking have operated to curtail supplies, and serious efforts are being made through a well organised distributing agency to extend the consumption of tea by the natives of India. It is to be hoped therefore that the industry may once more be established on a sound basis. The branches of export trade which have the most extended effect on agriculturists are those dealing with rice and oilseeds. The export of rice and paddy was practically the same as in the previous year, whereas in the case of oilseeds, though exports decreased by 27·7 per cent. in quantity, they increased by 3·2 in value due to the shortness of the crop.

RESOLUTION ON THE ADMINISTRATION REPORT OF THE POLICE DEPARTMENT IN BENGAL FOR THE YEAR 1900.

The Report on the Administration of the Police Department for the year 1900.

The Report for the year 1899 and the Resolution of Government recorded thereon.

THE Police of the Province are divided into three main heads: the District Police, the Railway Police and the Military Police. The Military Police form an armed reserve to deal with serious or organised disturbances that may arise, and during the year under review detachments from three out of the four companies were sent to Ranchi in connection with the Munda disturbances in that district. The work of the Railway Police is practically confined to offences actually committed on the railway, which are mostly petty thefts of small importance; but the railways are increasingly used by professional criminals, and the organisation of the Railway Police must be materially altered to enable them to assist more intelligently and usefully in the detection of this class of crime. The prevention and detection of crime in the Province generally is entrusted to the District Police, and it is with their work that the report is mainly concerned.

In the smaller towns the work of watch and ward is performed by town chaukidars, who are in theory only night-watchmen, but in practice are also required to do a certain amount of day duty. They are on patrol the whole night and the duty is exceedingly irksome; there is in consequence a growing difficulty in obtaining good men for this force and a danger of a combination between the watchmen and the local bad characters. That the force is useful is proved by the arrest of over 250 offenders by the night patrols, and there is no doubt that many burglaries are prevented; but in many places it has been necessary to raise the pay of the town chaukidar, and it is probable that this lead will have to be followed elsewhere in order to improve their efficiency. The working of the town police, as a whole, is, as might be expected from their constitution, very unequal; Darbhanga shows the best results, while Bogra is extremely bad; and in Pabna, out of 45 burglaries reported, not a single one was detected. In the rural areas the watch and ward duties are dependent on the chaukidars; under the station-beat system constables are sent out from the thanas periodically to visit villages, but the efficacy of this system has been questioned, and it is evident that, owing to the small number of District Police available, it can, at its best, be only a system of check. But, although the prevention of crime and the protection of person and property are the main duties of the police force as a whole, it is by their success in the detection of crime, which is only one form of prevention, that their work is generally judged. The work of investigating crime is mainly in the hands of Sub-Inspectors, and in accordance with the recommendations of the Police Committee of 1891, the number of Sub-Inspectors is yearly increased by a reduction in that of head-constables; the only special detective agency is a small staff of officers attached to the office of the Inspector-General who are deputed for special investigations as occasion arises. Under those recommendations the post of Sub-Inspector has, since 1891, been filled mainly by competitive examination, a proportion of the appointments being reserved for deserving head-constables. Both systems have now been under trial for some time. Opinions differ as to the results. Sub-Inspectors appointed by examination suffer from want of experience; but it is clear that bad detection in the Province, as a whole, cannot be properly attributed to the competitive system. In the Resolution on last year's report it was observed that the police force was under-manned both in the superior and subordinate grades, and during the year under review plague, census, and, in some places scarcity, have added to the difficulties of the police. The whole question of the police force in this Province is under consideration, and a comprehensive scheme for its improvement is under preparation; but these facts must be remembered when judging its work during the year.

2. At the same time, it was pointed out last year that, apart from any increase to the staff, there are two ways of lessening the work thrown upon the police, and it is disappointing that the report shows that there has been so little progress in utilizing them. The first is a judicious employment of the power to abstain from enquiries into petty cases of theft and burglary. The question is necessarily not free from difficulties, and careful supervision is needed; but it is clear that a considerable portion of the time of an overworked force is at present taken up in investigating petty cases with no adequate result. In Patna district there were 1,324 burglaries in which no property was stolen, and every one of them was investigated, but only 17 of them ended in conviction. In the Province, as a whole, there were 14,773 burglaries without theft, and of these 12,226 were investigated and resulted in 453 convictions. The majority of these cases must have been palpably hopeless from the very outset, yet, though the Patna figures are the most noticeable, no district outside the Burdwan Division has made the slightest endeavour to conserve the energies of its overworked police by following the instructions of last year. There were 9,112 cases of theft in which the value of the property stolen was less than one rupee; of these 6,963 were investigated and resulted in 3,746 convictions. These results are better than in the case of burglaries; but, as 1,832 of the convictions were for stealing grain, it seems probable that the majority of the convictions were owing to the offenders being caught red-handed. The figures for the Orissa Division are the best, but in no Division are the results at all commensurate with the labour that must have been involved. The effect of these investigations in the way of intimidating local bad characters is not overlooked, but it does seem that at present this is attained in Bengal at too great an expense, and possibly more actual detection might be accomplished with the time set free by less incessant enquiry. It is admitted that the present system does not prevent concealment of crime, and, while it is true that more frequent refusals to enquire may not necessarily ensure correct reporting, there is evidence that the practice in Bengal is a burden and vexation to the people, as it certainly is to the police. This was the view set forth and commended to the Inspector-General in last year's Resolution, and the Lieutenant-Governor must again request him to insist on Police officers working with proper care on the lines therein laid down.

3. The other method by which relief can be given to the police is by a fuller and more far-seeing employment of the village chaukidars. The views of Government on this point were very fully stated last year. The force must be carefully fostered and guided by the Magistrate and District Superintendent acting in concert, but the ultimate control must rest with the Magistrate, because it is essential that the force should not lose its village character and be regarded as an inferior branch of the police; but this fact does not divest the District Superintendent of Police of the responsibility of carefully supervising, improving and encouraging the chaukidars. Scattered through the report are instances of good work done by the chaukidars—resistance to dacoits, capture of dacoits (in one instance, in Khulna, a gang of dacoits with arms in their possession was captured by chaukidars), recovery of stolen property, and so on, proving the immense assistance this force is capable of rendering. Nevertheless, the number of chaukidars rewarded, both judicially and departmentally, is smaller than last year, and the District Chaukidari Reward Fund again closed with an increased balance. It is true that the amount actually paid in rewards is larger, but it is not sufficient to wait for some conspicuous service on the part of a chaukidar, and then reward him well. It is necessary to teach the chaukidars that merit earns reward, and this must be first done in small matters. The ordinary chaukidar cannot be expected to develop all the virtues at once and do his duty for duty's sake; he needs careful encouragement. To say that no chaukidars in a district deserved reward is to convict the local officers of a want of interest and sympathy. In Bankura and Jalpaiguri the rules as to fining and rewarding remain a dead letter; and it is clear that the local officers are entirely apathetic. Mymensingh heads the list with

Rs. 10,089 paid in rewards, but it is noticeable that, while 41·1 per cent. of the force was fined, only 574, or 7·9 per cent., were rewarded; no doubt, many of these received extra monthly allowances, but it is a question for careful consideration whether smaller rewards spread over a larger area are not more efficacious in the present condition of the force. Muzaffarpur comes next with Rs. 3,452 given in reward; but as Rs. 5,753 were credited to the fund during the year in that district, and it closed with a balance of Rs. 8,251, the rewards paid are by no means too liberal; if the figures are correct, and only 398 chaukidars were fined, the fines inflicted must have been very excessive; a further report will be called for on this point. Saran, Gaya and the Sonthal Parganas have each disbursed more than Rs. 2,000, but they still have ample balances to their credit. Patna, Noakhali, Murshidabad and some other districts show small rewards, but they have probably been limited by the amount at the credit of their funds. On the other hand, in Pabna, 671 men were fined and Rs. 2,432 credited to the fund; only Rs. 496 were paid away in rewards to 91 men, and the fund closed with a balance of Rs. 7,545. In Rangpur only Rs. 658 was paid out, and the fund closed with a balance of Rs. 6,531. Dinajpur, with a closing balance of Rs. 3,722, could only find 50 chaukidars deserving of rewards, averaging Rs. 5 each. Burdwan, Birbhum, Hooghly, Jessore, Rajshahi, Bogra and Chittagong, with substantial funds at their credit, return a number of chaukidars rewarded small out of all proportion to the number fined. Again, there are complaints that the pay of the chaukidars in several districts was disbursed irregularly, and the men were left in arrears for long periods. The Burdwan, Bankura, Hooghly, Khulna, Chittagong, Pabna and Champaran officers are the chief offenders. The pay of a chaukidar is generally, and perhaps necessarily, small, but with proper supervision there is no reasonable excuse for not collecting it in time and disbursing it on the fixed date, and the Magistrates of the districts mentioned will be asked for their explanations. The dafadari system is now fully established and appears to be working well, but it is an essential part of the scheme that the dafadars should be more highly paid and treated with greater consideration than the rest of the chaukidars, and unless this is done, nothing is gained by merely repeating the complaint that the right men will not enlist. There is still plenty of room for improvement in the class of ordinary chaukidar, and this is of course to a certain extent a question of the pay that can be given to them; but a very great deal can also be done by personal interest and by improving the conditions and prospects of their service in other comparatively small ways. The Lieutenant-Governor once more commends the whole subject to the earnest attention of District Magistrates and Police officers; it is a subject worthy of their efforts, and they will not have to wait long for their reward in the improved criminal administration of their districts.

4. The work of the police has been, on the whole, disappointing during the year. They are undermanned, and plague, census and famine have increased their difficulties, and there has been a considerable rise in the volume of crime; but they have not made the best use of all the assistance that lay at their hands; and though they must not be judged by too high a standard, it must be admitted that they are or should be capable of better results. They have, on the whole, failed conspicuously in dacoity and burglary cases. The percentage of convictions to true cases reported has fallen to 36·3, the lowest percentage of any of the last eight years. The results in Sessions cases have been very unsatisfactory, and the percentage of convictions has again fallen. In Bankura, out of 52 persons tried, 35 were acquitted, and 25 of these were charged with dacoity. The percentages in Chittagong, Champaran, Khulna and Jessore are also very low. The police cannot be held entirely responsible for this, and it is hoped that the orders recently issued by the High Court to lessen the delays between committal and trial will have a good effect; but there is little doubt that the cases are not properly worked up and placed before the Court. The police have been unable to recover more than 15 per cent. of the property stolen, and the results all round strengthen the conclusion that their energy has been dissipated too much on fruitless petty investigations. As regards their conduct, there were four true cases of torture and a considerable number of charges of extortion; but the improvement of late years in this respect seems to have been maintained. It is unsatisfactory that in only one case, which was held to be false, was the complainant prosecuted. Apart from their want of energy and success in criminal cases, the conduct of the police has been good; and though the number of judicial punishments has slightly increased, the number of fines departmentally inflicted has decreased to a most satisfactory extent. More than half the force are in possession of good-conduct stripes, and three such stripes entitle the wearer to an extra rupee a month; there were 4,635 men so entitled, but the grant is limited to 10 per cent. of the force in each district, and no less than 3,006 men were consequently unable to obtain the reward they had otherwise earned. This limitation must give rise to a good deal of not unreasonable dissatisfaction.

5. There has been a rise of 11,254 in the figures for cognizable crime, and the total stands higher than in any year of the decade, except 1897. The increase is almost entirely accounted for under the heads of burglary and theft, and the explanation is given that it is due to the high prices and the general disorganisation caused in districts where plague chiefly occurred, and this is supported by the facts that the largest rise has been in the Patna Division, which was most affected by plague, and that in a very large number of cases the property stolen consisted of vegetable products. The number of riots has fallen from 2,194 to 1,989, the lowest figure returned during the last decade. The decrease is generally attributed to a larger number of proceedings under the preventive sections for binding the parties down, but much more in this direction might still be done with advantage. The cause of a riot is nearly always a land dispute, and the likelihood of a breach of the peace can always be known in plenty of time if the village chaukidars are properly worked. In this connection, the efficacy of a record-of-rights is insisted on as a preventive of agrarian crime generally; although the settlement proceedings may bring long-pending disputes to a head and temporarily increase crime, yet in the long run, when each man knows his own and his neighbours' rights, encroachments and oppression, with the consequent resistance and retaliation, are greatly checked. A disquieting feature of the year is the large increase in the number of riots in which life was lost. These are generally fights in which both parties come armed to settle their disputes, but a fatal issue seems to frighten both parties into the concealment of all incriminating evidence. These cases demand the closest attention and the firmest measures on the part of the District Officers. Section 110 (e), Criminal Procedure Code, should be vigorously employed, where possible, and the Courts should be moved to pass exemplary sentences when an offence of this kind is brought home.

6. Nor are the figures for serious offences against person and property more encouraging. For the last four years there has been a steady increase in the number of offences under the first head, and the increase is chiefly in murder and grievous hurt cases, and in no class of cases is the necessity for a detective agency more patent. Only about 32 per cent. of the cases reported ended in conviction. The number of offences against women has slightly increased, but no information is given as to this crime in the Dacca Division—where special measures had to be adopted last year—except a passing reference to the large number of acquittals in Mymensingh. Dacoity has again increased, and the number of convictions obtained has fallen. The dacoities are reported to be mainly the work of local bad characters, but in several cases they are assigned to gangs resident in Calcutta, and a closer communication between the city and rural police is very clearly required. It is noteworthy that the districts of Purnea, Midnapore, Hooghly, Palamau, Bankura, Faridpur, Pabna and Howrah account for over 43 per cent. of the total cases, and these are the districts which have most conspicuously failed to make use of the preventive sections of the Criminal Procedure Code; and, if the statement of rewards and punishments is a criterion, they are also the districts in which the chaukidars have not met with very sympathetic treatment. Until the villagers learn to help themselves and resist the dacoits, there is no matter in which their protection is more urgent, and apart from breaking up the gangs under section 401, Indian Penal Code, a proceeding which is generally beyond the unaided efforts of the local police, there is no way in which this protection can be given, except by a vigorous and intelligent use of the preventive sections. Yet last year, while dacoity and other serious crime increased, the number of proceedings for bad-livelihood showed an appreciable falling off, and the results show in many instances, e.g., Rangpur, Mymensingh, Chittagong and Midnapore, a want of careful selection in the cases that were instituted.

7. It might be expected that if the increase in cognizable crime is attributable to the rise in prices, the number of non-cognizable cases, which are often a sign of prosperity, should decrease; but there has been an increase of 8,107. The districts where the percentage of non-cognizable is always higher than that of cognizable crime were least affected by the rise of prices, and, in any case, a comparatively small rise or fall under this head is not of much importance from a police point of view.

8. The number of cases declared to be false remained about the same and also the number of prosecutions ordered, while the results of the prosecutions were slightly better. But it is clear that a great deal more should still be done to protect the innocent from unnecessary harassment, and the Inspector-General brings to notice several districts, e.g., Rangpur, Dacca and Faridpur, where the number of prosecutions is very low compared with the number declared false. None of these cases are declared false, unless the Court is of opinion that they have been maliciously brought, and, if there are grounds for the Court coming to that conclusion, it would appear to follow that there must be evidence to justify a prosecution much oftener than it is at present undertaken. It seems probable that in many of these cases there is a slight substratum of truth on which a malicious case has been founded; but these should not be declared false. The complainant should be dealt with under section 250, Criminal Procedure Code, a section that is far less used than it might be. In the matter of remands there has been no improvement, and Pabna, Backergunge and Faridpur again invite unfavourable comment. Pabna is the worst in every respect, and the explanation offered, which is different to that given last year, is not convincing. The Magistrates concerned will be addressed on the subject. There are the same inexplicable differences in the number of old offenders reconvicted in various districts. It cannot be supposed that all the old offenders go to the Patna district to commit crime, and the only explanation of the variations is the one given last year—the apathy of the police in some districts. The Central Bureau has been increasingly successful in identifying by their finger-impressions old offenders about whom reference has been made to them when the local police have failed to trace their previous history.

9. The thanks of Government are due to Mr. Bright for his concise report, and to Mr. Knyvett and the late Mr. Masters for their administration of the Department. Mr. Bright also brings to notice the good work done by Messrs. Bignell, Barnard and Showers.

ORDER.—Ordered that copies of this Resolution be forwarded to the Inspector-General of Police, the Commissioner of Police, Calcutta, and all Commissioners of Divisions for information.

Ordered also that the Resolution be published in the Calcutta Gazette.

PARIS EXHIBITION OF 1900.

The 11th September 1901.—The following is published for public information.

F. A. SLACKE,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

Extract from the Proceedings of the Government of India in the Department of Revenue and Agriculture (Commercial Exhibitions), No. 23—4-18, dated 28th August 1901.

RESOLUTION.

THE following letter, dated the 25th July 1901, from the Secretary, Royal Commission, Indian Committee, Paris Exhibition of 1900, regarding awards to Exhibitors in the Indian Section of the Exhibition, is published for information.

I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 4th instant regarding the awards to Exhibitors in the Indian Section of the Paris Exhibition, and in reply to inform you that, as I have before stated, every Exhibitor or "Collaborateur," who gained an award, will receive a diploma, and that every diploma, with the exception of the Honourable Mention, will be accompanied by a medal in bronze, bearing the name of the person or firm to whom it is awarded.

2. Both the diploma and the medal will be supplied free to the Exhibitor through the Indian and Ceylon Committee. If, however, an Exhibitor who has obtained an award of a gold or a silver medal desires to purchase a copy of the medal awarded actually in gold, silver, or silver gilt (vermeil), he must make special application through me to the French Authorities for the necessary "authorisation" for the medal to be struck.

3. The cost of these medals being: gold 626 francs, silver 20·25 francs, and silver gilt 26·00 francs.

4. For example, a person or firm awarded a "Grand Prix," a gold medal, or a silver medal would receive a diploma inscribed accordingly and accompanied by a bronze medal, both being supplied without cost. Should the Exhibitor want the medal to be actually struck in gold, silver or silver gilt, he must make application as before stated. All the medals, whether gold, silver or silver gilt, are identical in size and design, and are all struck at the French Mint.

5. In an interview I had this week with the Chief of the Awards Department of the Paris Exhibition, it was explained that the work of preparing and inscribing the names on the 80,000 medals awarded was one of immense magnitude, every medal having to pass through the press five times and be afterwards annealed.

6. With regard to the diploma, I was informed that it had not yet been actually finally approved, and would certainly not be issued until October. The medals, however, were in a more forward state, and would be issued at an earlier date, group by group, as finished.

7. It is suggested that all enquirers should be informed that the only authentic medals and diplomas awarded to Exhibitors in connection with the Indian Section will be delivered through the Indian and Ceylon Committee of the Royal Commission.

8. I am to add that when the medals and certificates are received, they will be forwarded to India without delay.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of the above be forwarded to all Local Governments and Administrations, to the several Departments of the Government of India, to the Inspector-General of Forests to the Government of India, the Director of the Geological Survey of India, the Reporter on Economic Products to the Government of India, and to the Honorary Secretary to the Trustees, Indian Museum, for information.

Ordered, also, that a copy be published in the Supplement to the Gazette of India.

[True Extract.]

J. B. FULLER,
Secretary to the Government of India.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE MONTH OF AUGUST 1901.

WEATHER during August has been similar in its main features to what obtained during the earlier part of the monsoon season. There has been the same conspicuous absence of cyclonic storms which during these months are of frequent occurrence in ordinary years, and in consequence weather has been of a settled character over the Bay. The only disturbance of the kind began to form about the middle of the month, but it almost immediately disappeared without the change of position which has such an important result in the rainfall distribution.

While there was an entire absence of cyclonic storms in the north of the Bay, there was the usual number of inland depressions, and owing to these general rainfall occurred in all parts of the Province. They, perhaps, while in Bengal, moved more rapidly westward than usual, and they appeared to receive a check to their westward movement while over the Central Provinces, with the result that rainfall was less heavy than usual in the east of Bengal and more heavy and continuous in the western districts. This irregularity in the distribution of rainfall, viz., a comparative absence in the eastern districts and the rather large excess in the west, was probably partly due to pressure having been with little interruption below the normal in the north-west, so that the monsoon current was deflected from the north of the Bay more westward than usual.

The variation from normal pressure was very small in the south-west of the Bay, but for the month as a whole there was defect elsewhere, ranging from ·03 inch in Burma and Assam to ·05 inch in Chota Nagpur and the west of Bihar. The monsoon current was, therefore, normal in direction over the Bay and quite up to normal strength. But the low pressure in the west caused the deflection referred to above to commence further south than usual, and hence East and North Bengal and Assam were deprived of part of the usual fall. The average rainfall in Chota Nagpur was 14 inches—rather more than half an inch in excess; in Bihar 12·3 inches, or about a quarter of an inch in excess, while in all the other divisions there was a considerable defect, amounting in East Bengal to 3·3 inches, in Orissa to 2·7, in South-West Bengal to 2·3, and in North Bengal to 1·5. The first inland depression began to form over South-West Bengal on the 7th, and was well developed with a cyclonic circulation of winds on the 8th. It was still over Lower Bengal on the 9th, but it then moved rapidly westward, and was in the west of Chota Nagpur on the 10th. The chief feature in connection with this disturbance was the very heavy rainfall in the west of Bihar between the 7th and 8th during the development of the disturbance. These were more of the nature of local falls, and were probably due to the change of winds from east to west and the temporary check to the monsoon current, which had previous to the 7th been flowing freely north-westward over Bihar.

The first appearance of the formation of a cyclonic storm over the Bay began on the 16th, and a slight depression with north-westerly winds on the Orissa coast was shown in the north-west of the Bay on the 17th. It had to a large extent filled up on the 18th, but winds were still north-easterly at some of the inland stations. As usual in such circumstances rainfall diminished over the Province, but the break was very temporary except in Bihar and part of North Bengal, where only scattered showers fell till the end of the third week, when the second inland depression of the month began to form, also in Lower Bengal.

This depression was fairly well formed on the 23rd, and moved slowly westward, being in the west of Chota Nagpur on the 25th. As it remained over Central India till the end of the month and weather in the western districts was during these days influenced by the disturbance, general and at times heavy rain fell in Chota Nagpur. The days of heavy rainfall in Chota Nagpur due to this depression were the 23rd to 25th and 29th to 31st. In the former period the depression was moving westward, and during the latter it was returning slowly eastward. The second series of changes were probably connected with, and contributed materially to, the development of the disturbance, which a few days later caused heavy general rainfall in Bengal Proper.

At the beginning of the month pressure was relatively to the normal lowest in South Bengal, and the pressure gradient over the Bay was steeper than usual. Ordinary monsoon weather prevailed with heavy rainfall in places, and temperature was above the normal in the east of the Province. Up to the 5th there was no change of importance. Rainfall diminished in the western districts somewhat, and temperature rose until it was 5° above the normal in the west of Bihar, but the pressure distribution and wind circulation were practically unchanged. On the 6th a brisk fall of pressure commenced; and as it continued on the 7th, a low-pressure area began to develop in South-West Bengal, and the pressure gradient became much steeper over the Bay. Rainfall became heavier in the north of the Province, and on the 8th, when winds had become westerly in Bihar, very heavy falls of 4 to 6 inches were general in the west of that division.

Wind velocity, owing to the steeper pressure gradient, began to increase on the 6th at Diamond Island, but it was not till the 11th that any considerable change occurred in the wind force at Saugor Island. The average velocity on that and the subsequent day was a little under 30 miles an hour, which was exceeded on only one occasion later in the month.

The depression was well developed on the 8th, though not of any great depth, and was causing general rainfall in all districts. It was in almost the same position on the 9th, but was deeper, the greatest defect being ·25 inch. It then moved rapidly westward, and pressure increased in the east of the Province on the 10th and over the whole area on the 11th, when there was still a moderate defect at inland stations and a steep gradient for the season over the Bay. The strong monsoon winds, which were then entering the Province from the Bay, caused general rainfall; but as the winds were more westerly on the 12th, the heavy rainfall was confined on that date to East and North Bengal.

The rainfall became less heavy and general as the wind force diminished at the head of the Bay, and as on the 16th a slight depression began to form in the north-west angle, a partial break commenced, especially in the northern districts, where winds became northerly. The depression was better defined on the 17th after a brisk rise of pressure in the north. As, however, the wave of rising pressure advanced southward, this slight disturbance disappeared, and weather was again normal on the 18th with fairly general light rain

From that time till the 22nd light monsoon weather prevailed with scattered rainfall and temperature high for the season. On the 22nd heavy rainfall began in North Bengal, and on the 23rd after a rapid fall of pressure a depression formed over Lower Bengal. The greatest defect was then nearly ·2 inch at Barisal, Calcutta, and Saugor Island; and as there had been no change in the south of the Bay, the pressure gradient was much steeper. The area of lowest pressure was in South-West Bengal on the 24th, and in the west of Chota Nagpur on the 25th. On the former of these dates, general, though not heavy, rain was falling in the area of the depression, but on the latter when the winds at the head of the Bay were much stronger, heavy falls of rain were general in Chota Nagpur, varying in amount from 2 to 4 inches.

Pressure rose very rapidly on the 26th, and the distribution was practically normal. Ordinary monsoon conditions became general over the Province with moderate rainfall, till towards the end of the month when the depression, which had been stationary in the Central Provinces, began to move eastward, and caused further rainfall in Chota Nagpur. During these closing days of the month pressure was in moderate excess, almost the only occasion on which it was high during the month; and owing to the continued cloud and rainfall, temperature was low, though only by small amounts.

Pressure was below the normal over the Province during the greater part of the month by variable and on two occasions by rather large amounts. The defect was greater in the western districts, and hence the difference in mean pressure for the month is rather exceptionally large. It is more than ·05 inch in Orissa, Chota Nagpur, and the west of Bihar, and about ·04 inch in Bengal Proper and Assam.

As pressure was about normal in the south-west of the Bay, the gradient was generally steeper than usual both towards the east and north coasts.

Temperature was more frequently above than below the normal, both in maximum and minimum readings. This was chiefly due to the comparative absence of cloud and of cyclonic disturbances. Generally in August there are periods of cyclonic weather which may be of several days' duration, during which there is heavy cloud with more or less continuous rainfall In such cases temperature is usually very low, and their influence in lowering the means is considerable. During the month just past there was only one case of such reduction of temperature and it was of short duration. At other times the cloud was a good deal broken; and though rain in considerable quantity was falling, the temperature remained fairly high.

In Bengal Proper excess was about 1°, in Chota Nagpur and Bihar rather more than half a degree, and in Orissa and Assam about half a degree.

Rainfall.—As stated above, there was no well-marked break in the rains, but at times it was both light and scattered; noticeably at the beginning of the month and in the middle, while the shallow depression formed in the north-west of the Bay and winds became northerly inland. At other times rain fell almost daily at the majority of stations; and while the two inland depressions were affecting weather conditions, heavy falls were numerous, but more in the western than eastern districts.

The monsoon current being deflected westward more than usual owing to the relatively low pressure in Central India, the rainfall for the month was deficient in Bengal Proper; and as cyclonic storms failed to develop in the north-west of the Bay, there was again a deficiency in Orissa. In the west of Chota Nagpur there was considerable excess, and in the west of Bihar a moderate excess. In East Bengal the average deficiency was 3·26 inches, in Orissa 2·71, in South-West Bengal 2·27, and in North Bengal 1·44. In Chota Nagpur and Bihar there was excess of ·62 and ·23 inch respectively.

In the extreme west of Chota Nagpur excess varied from 5 to 10 inches and in the central parts of the division it was more irregular and under 5 inches. In Bihar the variation was very irregular, and ranged from defect of 5 inches to excess of 6 inches In Bengal Proper there was usually a small defect except in parts of East Bengal, where it varied from 5 to 10 inches. In East Bengal the greatest defect was in Chittagong, Tippera, and the east of the Sundarbans.

In the extreme north-east of the Province excess was more general than defect, but the distribution was more irregular than usual, as shown by there being a part of the Jalpaiguri district in which defect was nearly 10 inches and of Dinajpur, where there was excess of about 8 inches.

The comparison of the actual rainfall in the various large divisions of the Province with the normal is most accurately and conveniently shown in the form of a percentage. The figures representing the rainfall for the month, calculated in this way, are included in the table below under the heading of August. This table really gives a condensed summary of the rainfall statistics of the present year up to date for each meteorological division, the first eight columns giving the actual average rainfalls in each division in each month, expressed as a percentage of the normal, while the ninth column gives the total rainfall for the first eight months expressed as a percentage of the normal rainfall for that period:—

The following table gives full data for comparison of the actual and normal rainfall of the month of August in all districts of the Province. The figures are derived from the average and actual rainfall of the rain-recording stations in each district, due allowance or weight being made for the area which each station represents. This gives a more accurate average than the arithmetical means given in the monthly meteorological tables The first column gives the normal or average district rainfall as determined from the rainfall observations of the past 25 years; the second column gives the actual district rainfall as determined from the weighted actual rainfalls of the month at the reporting stations in each district; the third column expresses the ratio of the actual district rainfall of the past month to the normal rainfall as a percentage; the fourth column states as a percentage how much the district rainfall of the month varied from the normal:—

NOTIFICATION—No. 1857J.D.

Rules for the appointment of Sub-Inspectors of Police.

The 21st September 1901.—The recruitment of Sub-Inspectors for the investigating staff of the Bengal Police is to be made by (1) open competition in accordance with the printed rules which follow; (2) by promotion from the rank and file of the Police Force; and (3) by the Inspector-General of Police nominating approved candidates.

2. All candidates however selected will have to undergo a course of training in the Bhagalpur Police Training School.

3. In order that candidates, who do not know English, but are otherwise eligible as investigating officers, may be taught in the Police Training School, the curriculum at that institution shall be either in English or in the vernacular.

4 Examinations will be held at any one or more of the following centres in accordance with a Government Notification which will be published in the Calcutta and Police Gazettes, and will determine and specify the centres at which examinations will be held, and the number of appointments to be competed for at each—

At Calcutta (Senate House) for the Presidency, Rajshahi and Burdwan Divisions; at Bankipore for the Patna, Bhagalpur and Chota Nagpur Divisions; at Cuttack for the Orissa Division; and at Dacca for the Dacca and Chittagong Divisions.

Information as to the hour and place of examination can be obtained 15 days before the examination by applying to the District Magistrates of the 24-Parganas, Dacca, Patna and Cuttack.

5. The following classes of candidates who are qualified under the next succeeding rule will be admissible to the examination by (1) open competition:—

(a) Persons who have passed the Entrance Examination of the Calcutta, Allahabad or Punjab University, and are permanent residents and natives of one of the Divisions allotted to the Examination Centre at which they propose to be examined, provided they are not less than 21 nor more than 25 years of age on the date fixed for the examination.

(b) Persons now serving as Head-Constables and Writer-Constables in the Police who have obtained the permission of the District Magistrate to appear at the examination, provided that they are not more than 30 years of age and are of not less than four years' standing in the Department. This permission will only be given to persons who satisfy the conditions laid down in Rule 6.

NOTE.—No certificate signed by any officer in charge during the temporary absence of the District Magistrate or District Superintendent of Police from head-quarters will be accepted. It is essentially necessary that the signature should be that of the District Magistrate and District Superintendent of Police themselves.

6. No person will be deemed qualified who does not satisfy the following conditions:—

I.—That he has no disease, constitutional affection or bodily infirmity unfitting him, or likely to unfit him, for police duties, and that he he is not less than 5 feet 3 inches in height and 30 inches round the chest (Government Circular No 4436J., dated the 7th December 1892).

NOTE.—"Stuttering or Stammering" is a constitutional defect, and represents a physical disqualification.

II.—That he is of good moral character.

III.—That he belongs to a respectable family.

IV.—That he produces a certificate of ability to ride signed by a District Officer.

7. Printed forms of applications for permission to appear at the examination are obtainable in the office of the District Superintendent of Police. In the case of (a) class candidates they should be submitted accompanied by a fee of Rs. 5 to the Magistrate of the district in which the intending candidate permanently resides, and in the case of (b) class candidates they should be submitted to the Magistrate of the district within which the intending candidate is serving. In each case the application must be submitted not later than one month before the date fixed for the examination.

8. In the case of candidates of class (a) the Magistrate shall require a personal identification of each candidate by some responsible and competent person, whose opinion can be trusted and whose name should be recorded, and satisfy himself that the certificate* of respectability and moral character refers to the individual applying for permission to appear at the examination. It is particularly important that candidates be of reputable parentage and antecedents, and old certificates or certificates granted by irresponsible persons should not be accepted. In the case of each candidate of class (b) the application must be accompanied by the certificate of the District Superintendent of Police in the form given on the form of application. The candidates shall then be sent to the District Superintendent, who will then take the necessary steps to fill in the certificate as to measurement, &c., and will take the thumb impressions, &c., as noted on the form of application. If the District Superintendent of Police finds that the candidate is of the prescribed height and chest measurement and is free from the defect of stammering or stuttering, the candidate shall then be sent by him to the Civil Surgeon or Civil Medical Officer for the prescribed certificate as to physical fitness, the fee for which will be Rs. 4 in cases of (a) class candidates only. In case of (b) class candidates no such fee is required.

9. In the case of (a) class candidates the District Superintendent of Police will, after seeing that all the certificates are in order, issue a verification roll in the form prescribed in the Bengal Police Code, and inform the candidate that his appointment will be contingent on the enquiry into his parentage and antecedents proving satisfactory. In the case of (b) class candidates these verification rolls are not required. The District Superintendent will then send the applicant with his certificates to the Magistrate, who, after subjecting the candidate to an examination in riding, and if he pass the examination, noting the fact on the form of application, will grant him a written permission to appear at the examination.

10. When permission has been given to any applicant to appear at an examination, the above papers with the Treasury receipt for the examination fee, which should be paid into the Treasury, will then be forwarded without delay by the Magistrate of the district in which the candidate resides to the Magistrate of the centre at which the candidate is to be examined.

11. Candidates who have been permitted to appear will attend before the Examination Committee on the day preceding the examination. The Examination Committee will compare the descriptions, thumb impressions (duplicate impressions being taken for the purpose, if necessary), and signatures, and satisfy itself as to the identity of the person appearing. The Committee will also satisfy itself as to the physical qualifications of any candidate concerning whom it may entertain doubt and reject such candidate, should he, on re-examination, be found below the required standard.

12. At the examination a candidate will be required to sign the papers in every subject, writing his father's name and his own address on them to avoid confusion arising out of a similarity of names.

13. After the results of the examination have been ascertained, the certificates and verification rolls of passed candidates will be forwarded to the Principal of the Police Training School, Bhagalpur, and will be treated as verification rolls.

The certificates of unsuccessful candidates will be returned, if asked for, within two months, or destroyed at the end of that period.

14. The subjects of examination will be as follows:—

IV.—Law, including the Penal Code, the Criminal Procedure Code, and the Evidence Act.

2. General knowledge	... 200		4. Law	... 200

Those who have not obtained half marks in dictation and language and one-third marks in the aggregate of the remaining papers are to be struck out as ineligible for appointment. Of the remaining candidates, a list will be made as follows:—(i) two-thirds of the appointments obtainable by open competition to be given to (a) class candidates who stand highest on the list in order of merit; (ii) one-third of the appointments obtainable by open competition to be given to (b) class candidates selected from among those candidates who have obtained not less than one-third of the marks.

16. Natives of Bengal Proper will be eligible for appointments in all districts where Bengali is the vernacular of the district. Natives of Bihar will be eligible for appointments in districts where Hindi is the vernacular, and natives of Orissa for appointments in districts where Uriya is the vernacular. They will, however, be liable to transferred to any district in the Province.

17. Selected candidates, whose verification rolls have been returned as satisfactory, will undergo a 20 weeks' course of instruction at the Bhagalpur Police Training School. This course will include drill, elementary surveying, anthropometry, and instruction in prosecuting cases in Magistrates' Courts and other practical duties of an investigating officer.

18. At the end of the 20 weeks candidates obtaining a certificate of proficiency will be posted to districts as probationers for two years. If at the end of that period they are pronounced competent and fit, they will receive appointments in due course as fifth grade Sub-Inspectors During the period of instruction they will be subject to the rules and regulations of the Training School and will receive Rs. 20 a month as salary. On being passed out of the Training School, they will receive Rs. 30 a month as Probationary Sub-Inspectors.

19. The position of selected candidates in the Range lists from which promotions are made will be determined firstly in the case of (b) class candidates by seniority, and secondly in the case of (a) class candidates by the places obtained at the final examination held at the conclusion of the Training School term.

No. 1723Marine.

Government of Bengal.

MARINE DEPARTMENT.

Dated Calcutta, the 16th September 1901.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

The Administration Report of the Commissioners of the Port of Chittagong for the year 1900-1901.

The financial position of the Chittagong Port Fund for the past two years is shown in the following statement:—

Financial position.

		1899-1900. Rs.	A.	P.	1900-1901. Rs	A	P.
Opening balance of the year	...	31,708	14	3	19,330	5	6
Receipts during the year	...	80,504	4	3	64,418	11	4
Total	...	1,12,213	2	6	83,749	0	10
Expenditure during the year	...	92,882	13	0	67,599	15	4
Balance at the close of the year	...	19,330	5	6	16,149	1	6
Total	...	1,12,213	2	6	83,749	0	10

The receipts fell short of those of the previous year by Rs. 16,085-8-11. There was a falling off in the receipts under the heads "Port Dues" and "Earnings of the steam-tug Gekko," as a smaller number of vessels had entered the port during the year.

Shipping.

2. There were seven vessels, aggregating 14,041 tons, which entered the port from foreign ports during the past year, against twelve vessels, aggregating 19,341 tons, in the previous year. The decrease was due to a smaller number of vessels arriving from the United Kingdom with salt and railway materials.

There were 15 vessels, aggregating 27,921 tons, which cleared for foreign ports during the year, against 18 vessels, aggregating 28,576 tons, in the previous year. The decrease was attributable to the fact that no vessels cleared for Newcastle, Hamburgh and Port Said.

There were 446 vessels, aggregating 201,152 tons, which entered from home ports, against 487 vessels, aggregating 213,232 tons, in the previous year. The decrease was due to fewer vessels having been employed in the jute trade with Naraingunge, and to a smaller number of steamers having arrived from other coast ports.

There were 450 vessels, aggregating 193,652 tons, which cleared for home ports during the year, against 499 vessels, aggregating 207,532 tons, in the previous year. The decrease was due to a smaller number of vessels clearing for Naraingunge.

Port appliances.

3. The appliances of the port and light-houses are reported to have been kept in good order during the year.

Jetty.

4. The new jetty constructed at double moorings was brought into use about the middle of 1899. Five vessels were placed alongside it during the year, against one in 1899-1900. It is worked by the Assam-Bengal Railway, and there is reason to believe that it will shortly become a source of revenue. The receipts during the year amounted to Rs. 3,545, and the expenditure to Rs. 4,237-13-3.

Earnings of the steam-tug Gekko.

5. The earnings of the steam-tug Gekko maintained by the Port amounted to Rs. 5,941-8, while the expenditure in maintaining the vessel aggregated Rs. 19,827-14-9. A saving, however, was effected by the vessel, amounting to Rs. 6,000, being the estimated value of the services performed for the port, for which no charge was made. This, deducted from the expenditure, leaves the net expenditure on account of the vessel at Rs. 13,827-14-9. As already stated, the decrease in the receipts was due to a smaller number of vessels having entered the port during the year.

The mean pressure, temperature, etc., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from eye observations.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

(a) The decrease of 2·86 miles is due to correction.
(b) The decrease is chiefly due to pilgrim traffic on account of "Bhadra Purno Mashee" and "Petri Pakha malas," and also to running of extra troop trains in the corresponding period of 1900.
(c) The decrease is chiefly in grains, piece-goods and sundry articles.
